BURTON OF KANSAS NEARER TO PRISON

Only a Straw Between United States Senator and Cell; Sixty Days to Ask for Rehearing.

STILL HOLDS HIS SEAT.

Supreme Court Decides That Senate Alone Has Right to Deprive One of Its Members of Office.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—It is not often the United States Supreme court finds it necessary to affirm a sentence of imprisonment for a United States senator. J. Ralph Burton of Kansas exhausted his last appeal today, although as a matter of form the court permitted him to take sixty days in which to file a motion for a rehearing.

This brings the case into the October term of court, and it will probably save Senator Burton from immediate expulsion, because his colleagues in the senate generally have taken the ground he ought not to be put out of their body in disgrace until he has exhausted all legal chance of acquittal.

It is seldom the Supreme court grants a rehearing. Now and then new evidence is developed after a case is first heard, and at long intervals there are reasons which impel the judges to change their minds after they have rendered a decision, but in a great majority of cases a decision by the Supreme court is final at the time it is rendered, and a petition for a rehearing is a mere form, dear to lawyers, but not of much practical advantage to any one.

Certain to Be Expelled.

Mr. Burton, therefore, will remain nominally a senator and will be entitled to draw his pay for some months to come. When the Supreme court denies his petition for a rehearing he will have to go to jail, and if he does not have the good taste to resign the senate will meet in regular session next December with one of its members behind prison bars, and it will have to go through the form of expelling a man who could not get to a meeting of the senate without breaking jail.

There were some extremely curious things about the Burton case from the outset, and not the least interesting has been the decision of Justice Harlan which was handed down today. Senator Burton was tried and convicted of having accepted a fee of $500 a month for five months from the Rialto Grain and Securities company of St. Louis for services rendered that company by means of his efforts to prevent the issuing of an order by the postoffice department restraining the company from using the mails because of fraud.

The statute under which Senator Burton was prosecuted is an old, old thing. It was passed in 1782, in the earliest days of the republic. It prohibits senators and representatives from receiving compensation for services rendered before any of the government departments in any matter in which the government itself may be specifically interested.

Mortification of the Senate.

What has mortified the members of the senate more than anything else has been the fact that almost from the first Senator Burton practically admitted the facts but sought to protect himself exclusively by technicalities. There was a mistrial at first because it was asserted the money was paid here in Washington, whereas the Missouri federal court had assumed jurisdiction. Then Burton insisted he was acting for an individual member of the Rialto company and that the fee was not paid for any services rendered in the case of the postoffice order against the company as a corporation.

Furthermore, it was insisted the government was not directly interested in any case where a fraud order was about to be issued, as such orders were not at all for the protection of the government but were issued for the general welfare of the people.

All these technicalities were gall and wormwood to the members of the senate. They thought so long as Burton practically admitted the facts in the case he should have resigned at once. An intimation was conveyed to him that if he appeared in Washington and attempted to act as a senator an objection would immediately be made on the floor and proceedings instituted to secure his expulsion. To this extent Burton paid attention to the hints thrown out, but he has never yet resigned, and the understanding is he will not do so until after the Supreme court denies his petition for a rehearing.

Senate to Act in December.

This brings up an extremely interesting situation with which the senate will have to deal, in all probability, next December unless Burton actually resigns in the meanwhile. The old law of 1782, under which he was convicted, provides not only for fine and imprisonment but for disqualification from holding office under the government of the United States. When Burton was convicted on his second trial he was sentenced on two counts of the indictment on which he had been found guilty. One count carried six months in jail and a fine of $2,000 and the other a jail sentence of three months and $500 fine. This makes a total of nine months in jail and a fine of $2,500, the money practically being the equivalent of the sum he is said to have received for his services.

Besides that, however, he was formally sentenced to be forever disqualified from holding office under the government. The law under which he was sentenced was declared today to be constitutional, and the sentence passed by the court below was affirmed.

Senate Is Sole Judge.

This brings the case down to a pretty constitutional question, which has now been decided by the United States Supreme court specifically for the first time. It was supposed by a good many senators that the minute Burton's case was affirmed he would cease to be a senator, because his sentence disqualified him from holding office under the government.

The Supreme court, however, has taken an entirely different view of it. It goes back to the old theory that a senator is the personal representative of a sovereign state, an ambassador, so to speak, but not an officer of the federal government.

This theory has often been held before, but has never been elaborated as it was today, when Justice Harlan in his decision said:

"The final judgment of conviction did not operate ipso facto to vacate the seat of the convicted senator, nor to compel the senate to expel him, or to regard him as expelled by force alone of the judgment. The seat into which he was originally inducted as a senator from Kansas could only become va-

RAILROAD 'GRAFT' IN BIG CONTRACTS.

"GOT THEIRS" IN CASH.

Evidence Expected Tomorrow to Show Distribution of Money by Coal Shippers in Blank Envelopes.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 21.—[Special.]—Ugly stories of "graft" in the purchase of locomotives, steel rails, cars, and equipment for the Pennsylvania railroad are in circulation, and a legislative inquiry is now declared to be certain.

Another sensation to be sprung by the interstate commerce commission on Wednesday is evidence that many of the Pennsylvania officials "got theirs" from the coal and oil companies in cash. This money, it is said, was distributed regularly, all of it going through one man's hands. The agent in this proceeding is said to have been a former superintendent of transportation. The money was given to him by the coal or oil companies and he placed it in blank envelopes, these being given to various officers of the operating department.

Officials Get Big Sums?

The rumors of graft in the purchase of supplies declare that officials of the railroad have received big sums for placing large orders with favored steel companies.

Back of the demand for a legislative inquiry are the minority stockholders who have been startled by the exposures of graft uncovered by the Interstate Commerce commission.

The admissions of prominent officials of the company that they had accepted as gifts large blocks of stock of certain coal companies came as a distinct shock to the stockholders, and now they want a more searching inquiry by the legislature.

Owing to the restrictions placed upon the investigation of the interstate commerce commission by the resolution passed by congress, many avenues which would prove or disprove the allegation of general graft can not be entered. Only that portion of the management dealing with the coal or oil traffic can be touched upon.

Therefore the minority stockholders desire to know just what safeguards against graft are taken in other departments. They have already secured counsel and their next step is only a matter of a short time.

Like the Insurance Scandal.

It is argued that the desired result can only be obtained by the appointment of a committee by the legislature to undertake the task, such committee to be organized on the same plan as the Armstrong committee, which unearthed the insurance scandals in New York. These stockholders are not actuated so much by a desire to expose the scandals as they are by a purpose of securing an economical as well as progressive system of administration. The caution with which many financial interests have received the announcement of the recent $50,000,000 loan by the railroad has done much to push this desire for an inquiry.

Gives Carnegie the Lie.

In an interview today which touched upon the investigation the railroad itself will carry on, Vice President John Green gave the lie direct to Andrew Carnegie, who last week denied receiving rebates from the Pennsylvania railroad. Mr. Green supported the assertion of President Cassatt in a recent magazine article, in which the Pennsylvania's president said that Andrew Carnegie's steel companies received more rebates than any other shipper on the road. He further contradicted Mr. Carnegie, who denied that he ever had any personal interview with President Cassatt.

"There is just this about it," said Mr. Green, "our records show that the steel companies governed by Andrew Carnegie received more rebates during the time they were given by the road than any other shipper in any line of business. I have not the slightest doubt that Mr. Carnegie held not one, but several conferences with President Cassatt on the subject. I also know that Mr. Cassatt's refusal to grant rebates after the enactment of the Sherman law led to strained relations between us and Carnegie's companies.

"Why does Carnegie deny it all now? O, ask me something easy."

Officials Are Alarmed.

While awaiting the next meeting of the interstate commerce commission the Pennsylvania officials are making a strong effort to patch up a defense. About fifty officials and clerks located in the soft coal region were called to this city Saturday and today and questioned as to their coal holdings. George W. Creighton, superintendent of the Pennsylvania division, directly in charge of these men, spent an hour or more in conference with the general manager, W. W. Atterbury, at the Broad street station, who also was subpœnaed today.

Subpœnas were served today on Robert Pitcairn, President Cassatt's assistant at Pittsburg, to whom President Jamison of the Jamison Coal company, says he sent $5,000 in cash for "good will," and upon William A. Patton, Cassatt's Philadelphia assistant, who is said to hold large blocks of stock, both for himself and others in favored coal companies. Patton has dodged two meetings of the commission, but cannot dodge this one. There were a score of other subpœnas served.

LAWYER IS A COUNTERFEITER; CONFESSION FOLLOWS ARREST

Indianapolis, Ind., May 21.—[Special.]—After nearly two years' search to find the man who was making the most dangerous counterfeit half dollar ever manufactured secret service officers today arrested William B. Schwartz, a well known lawyer of this city, and an hour later he confessed.

The molds at his house were given up, and an electric battery and a spurious half dollar were found at his office, where he finished the counterfeits.

Schwartz once had a fine practice, but neglected it to care for a deranged wife, who is now in an asylum. Finding that he could not support his two daughters by his profession he began counterfeiting, and his output caused the officers much trouble.

SCORES CRIME OF CAPITAL.

BELMONT IN ANGRY REPLY.

I. M. O. Dinner Precipitates Heated Discussion of "Corporate Greed."

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Gaynor at the Civic federation banquet tonight denounced in savage, unmeasured terms the recent street railway merger in this city as "dishonest enough to shock the moral sense of the people of the entire country." He declared, too, that ultimately the people would tear down the railroads, peaceably if they could, forcibly if they must.

August Belmont, president of the subway system, who engineered the merger, flushed and excited, made an angry reply, in conclusion glaring at the justice and pounding the table with his clinched fist until the dishes rattled.

Worst Scoring in Years.

Not in years had the representatives of the big corporations received such a castigation as Justice Gaynor gave them tonight. He and Belmont were guests of the Civic federation as members of the municipal ownership commission. He started off mildly enough and then warming up began his denunciation.

"The community," he said, "cannot look without feeling, without regret, without deep resentment, and finally, without action to the doubling up of capital, the trebling of capital, put into these public franchises, representing nothing but a perpetual tax on the community.

"We see these great companies in New York now united and leasing themselves for 999 years. Think of our standing that thing for 999 years! Nine years is more likely than 999.

Drain on the People.

"Is the actual capital doubled? No, not the capital, but these great gifts, these franchises that are nothing but licenses from the people, are made a drain on the community, by being bonded and the stock doubled up year after year until the sum has become colossal enough—I will be bold enough to say it even in this presence—dishonest enough to shock the moral sense of the people of this country. There is the seed of this hostility, this feling toward these corporations.

"We have just had a great debate in Washington touching on the railways. The same thing is true of them. What are the railways but our public highways, as much as the dirt road alongside?

Crime of the Corporations.

"It is a horrible crime if the public highways carry the freight of one man or a group of men at half the rate charged another, to the aggrandizement of one man and the destruction of another.

"The horrible crime of the corporations have come to be understood by the people. The people realise that great utilities are not being operated for the public weal but for the aggrandizement of one man, which is the reverse of public sentiment and public demand.

"Corporations have taken private property, which can only be taken possession of upon the assumption that certain rights are to revert to the owners of that property, when in fact they are providing no return to the people."

People Won't Stand It.

"We have recently had explained to us how a certain man or certain interests can carry freight from one section of the country to another for one-half other men have to pay.

"Go back to the days of toll gates. What do you think would happen if one man should drive through for one-half what another man paid? They would tear down the toll gate. What will ultimately happen to the railroads? We will do this peacefully if possible, forcibly if we must.

"There is nothing more certain than that the people have come to the conclusion that this thing will no longer be tolerated, either on the highways of the nation or the highways of the city."

Belmont in Angry Retort.

Then Mr. Belmont got his chance. He got up with a face that was still flushed and it was evident that he had been taken completely by surprise by Judge Gaynor's remarks.

"I want to repudiate right here, in the most unqualified language," said Mr. Belmont, bringing his fist down on the table with a bang that rattled the dishes; "I want to repudiate this insinuation that I or my associates manage these corporations in any other spirit than that of honesty or of correct purpose and with any other view than that of complying with the very letter of the law.

"I do think that every corporation and every corporate merger is entitled to be heard in court first and that this action shall be tested after the verdict of the court and not before.

"You know to what I refer and therefore it will not be necessary for me to add anything, and I am sorry that I have had to make this statement."

FIRE WALKING PERFORMANCE ALMOST BECOMES TRAGEDY.

Berkeley, Cal., May 21.—An exhibition performance of the rites of the Pagan worship of fire, as practiced by the fire walkers of Tahiti, given in Berkeley today, almost ended in a tragedy.

Two of the fire walkers, Priest Puhia Aphanuis and his wife, attempted to walk with bare feet across a pit of white hot stones, around which were shooting red, snarling tongues of flames. When they were half way across their Tahitian costumes, made from mats of dried grass, caught fire, and had it not been for the prompt action of spectators both the fire walkers would have been burned to death.

The woman was badly scorched about the head and hands and the hair was nearly all singed from her head. Puhia's clothing was burned from his body and he suffered painful wounds. Strange to say, the feet of the victims show no evidence of the walk.

RUSHES MARINES TO PANAMA

United States Emphasizes Its Warning Against Revolution.

CANAL ISSUE IS AT STAKE.

Taft Declares Policy Will Admit of No Interference.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Acting on information which is not given to the public, the administration has ordered a large number of marines to points near Panama in expectation of revolutionary outbreaks on the isthmus at the coming elections, early in June.

The cruiser Columbia sailed from League Island navy yard for Guantanamo, Cuba, today with more than 400 marines. The cruiser Marblehead, attached to the Pacific squadron, is due today or tomorrow at Amapala, Honduras, not far from the Pacific side of the isthmus, where there is a cable station. The Marblehead has a large number of marines on board, but just how many can not be ascertained.

The Columbia will go direct to Guantanamo. Upon its arrival there, if the situation seems serious, it will be sent to some point nearer Colon, if not direct to that port. The same method will be followed with regard to the movements of the cruiser Marblehead.

Radicals Now May Subside.

There can be no doubt the government here had information which strongly indicates that the radicals intend to make trouble at the coming elections. It is likely, however, that in view of the concentration of marines ready to land on the isthmus and engage in any revolution, the radicals will cool down and allow the election to pass off quietly.

From unofficial sources it is learned the trouble is based mainly on the fact that the conservatives, now in power, have everything fixed for a sweeping victory at the coming elections, and the radicals, outnumbering the party in power, stand no show. Under these circumstances the radicals stand a good chance of a successful revolution, but with the United States government objecting and threatening to use force in quelling any attempted outbreak, they probably will show considerable hesitancy in acting.

Warned Several Weeks Ago.

A distinct warning was sounded by the administration several weeks ago as to the course this government would take if there was a revolution in Panama. There was a good deal of correspondence on the subject, and both Secretary Taft and Secretary Root aired their views and laid down the government's policy. There was no mistaking the meaning in the letters of both—that the United States government would not permit a revolution in Panama. This decision was based on the belief a revolution seriously will interfere with the work of canal construction, and that the United States does not propose to tolerate.

The decision as to the policy of this government was brought about by inquiries from malcontents in Panama as to what this government would do if they started a revolution. The answers in the form of letters to Gov. Magoon of the canal zone, left no doubt. The shipment of marines to points near Panama is an evidence of the determination of the United States in the matter, and the proof thus furnished to the revolutionists in Panama probably will bear fruit and prevent any outbreak.

JUDGE CHETLAIN ASKS AN INQUIRY.

Admits Imprudence, Denies Imputations Against Integrity, and Wants Bar to Investigate.

POSER FOR THE LAWYERS

In a letter admitting "improvidence" and "imprudence"; in his financial operations but stoutly denying imputations against his integrity Judge Arthur H. Chetlain last night asked the Chicago Bar association to investigate the charges brought against him by his former business associates.

The letter was addressed to Attorney Charles P. Abbey, secretary of the bar association, and will be received by him this morning. Mr. Abbey said last night that he probably would call a special meeting of the board of managers for Thursday afternoon to consider the judge's request. Judge Chetlain's letter follows:

"The public journals of the city recently have contained extended articles detailing at great length various financial transactions in which I have been engaged and in which I have lost considerable sums; and some of these articles have contained also most serious and injurious imputations upon my character and integrity as a judge. This is a matter which concerns not only myself—and that most deeply and painfully—but vitally concerns the dignity and integrity of the bench and the administration of public justice in this community.

Of Interest to the Association.

"It is a matter which should, and I believe does, appeal strongly to your association. Quite conscious as I am that there is much in these accusations as to improvidence and lack of proper prudence in incurring considerable pecuniary obligations which now greatly embarrass and distress me, I am equally conscious that never has my judicial conduct been influenced or affected by any consideration which I would not willingly submit to the scrutiny of the profession and the public.

"I have, therefore, after consideration, deemed it proper to request that the association, either through one of its regular committees or some special committee, as may be deemed preferrable, institute promptly a thorough and public investigation of this whole matter, with a view to a full report thereon; and to that end would ask you to submit this suggestion to the board of managers of the association. Should the board order such an investigation, I shall be glad to appear before the committee undertaking it and submit to the fullest and most searching examination as to all matters involved in it. Yours truly, ARTHUR H. CHETLAIN."

Friends Urge Thorough Inquiry.

Judge Chetlain took this step after consultation with his friends, chief of whom were Attorney S. S. Gregory and Horace K. Tenney, president of the Bar association, who is also a cousin of the judge. The jurist's friends are emphatic in declaring that a full and satisfactory inquiry on all suspicions of wrongdoing is wanted.

"We don't want an investigation that any one can call a whitewash," said one of them.

In this request of the judge lies a puzzling problem for the association. It never has had a judge on trial in all its history. Its chief business in the reformatory field has been to cause the disbarment of lawyers who do "unethical" things. In such case the evidence against the accused is furnished by a complainant who has brought the matter to the attention of the association.

In the case of Judge Chetlain the question the board of managers will have to consider is how to get the evidence against him presented. Unless the authors of the charges volunteer their testimony it will be difficult to have a thorough investigation. The association does not have the power to subpœna witnesses. It is suggested that some committee may be directed to prepare the charges against the judge and get as many of the witnesses as possible to give their testimony. These possibilities will be discussed by the board of managers before deciding whether or not to undertake the inquiry.

Standing Committee Preferred.

If the request of the judge is complied with the hearing will be had either before a special committee or one of the standing committees. The preference is in favor of one of the standing committees to avoid any appearances of packing the trial committee. The choice of the standing committee lies between the grievance committee and the judiciary committee. The members of the former are:

Charles E. Vroman,	Samuel Adams.
Harry D. Irwin,	Rush C. Butler.
Amos C. Miller.

The members of the judiciary committee are:

Lessing Rosenthal,	Axel F. Hatch.
Walter S. Holden,	Joseph H. Defrees.

"The matter is a grave one," said Secretary Abbey, "and I am glad the judge has taken this step. In acting on his request the association will find a good many problems to solve, and I don't know that it will be easy to bring about a thorough investigation. I shall call a special meeting of the board of managers, probably for Thursday afternoon, to consider the matter."

Grand Jury Inquiry Uncertain.

Whether there will be a grand jury investigation of the charges is uncertain. State's Attorney Healy is understood to be looking into the situation, but he is reticent.

"I don't care to say whether I am investigating or not," he said. "If any laws have been violated the evidence will be presented to the grand jury, but whether there is ground for such charges in this affair I am not prepared to say."

Brenner's Purchases of Paper.

When ex-Ald. N. T. Brenner was approached by Silverston with Judge Chetlain's paper he was not wholly sure the latter was authorized to dispose of it, and, he says, he called up the judge by phone. Being informed that the notes were bona fide he agreed to take one drawn for $700 later. Silverston saw him again and wanted Brenner to take $1,500 more of the paper. In speaking of this the former alderman says:

"I told Silverston that I didn't suppose the judge would care to dispose of so much of his paper, and he told me to see the judge. I did and once more Judge Chetlain said it was all right and that he would take care of the notes when due. I asked him so as inform me in writing, and the next day I received a letter from him."

Mr. Brenner still has this letter, which reads as follows:

Chicago, May 29, 1905.—Mr. N. T. Brenner, City —Dear Sir: In reply to your inquiry, I wish to state that the three notes offered you for discount by the Rapid Transit Stock Car company, dated May 18, 1905, and for $500 each, due four months from date, signed and indorsed by me, and given for value received, will be promptly taken care of by me when due. Trusting this is all the information you require, I am, very truly yours,

ARTHUR H. CHETLAIN.

Gives Notes of His Company.

When Silverston returned with the notes, however, Mr. Brenner refused to take more than one, and, as in the case of the $700 note first taken, gave a note of the American Insulated Wire and Cable company, with the discount of 10 per cent agreed to. Mr. Brenner declares that his reason for giving notes on the company in which both he and Mr. Loeffler were interested was that at that time he did not have the necessary cash on hand, but he says he never viewed the transaction in any other light than a personal one, and instructed his bookkeeper to make a memorandum so stating.

"I considered," said he, "that it was a private business transaction, and if there was any profit to come out of it I would get it, and if there was to be any loss I would sustain that. In fact, the $300 still due on the $700 note long since has been paid into the company treasury by me.

Balance of $300 Still Unpaid.

"These notes were made payable in four months and on Sept. 5 I sent the $500 one to the Metropolitan Trust and Savings bank and it was met promptly. In fact, when I called up that afternoon the officials at the bank said it had been paid and that $300 and interest had been paid on the other one. Subsequently, $100 more was paid on the $700 note, but that is all we have been able to get and there is still $300 due."

"Weren't these notes discounted by you at about the time Loeffler was tried before Judge Chetlain?" Mr. Brenner was asked.

"I don't remember when he was tried, but I do know that the idea that there could have been any connection between the two never entered my head."

The files of THE TRIBUNE show that William Loeffler was tried on May 30, 1905, and the letter from Judge Chetlain to Mr. Brenner is dated May 29, 1905.

Judge's Gold Mining Venture.

Another business venture in which Judge Chetlain was interested and a director is the Porto Rico Gold Mining company, a concern in which $50,000 is said to have been sunk by persons of small means. The stockholders, who have never realized anything from their investments and who have tried in vain to obtain a statement of the company's condition, threaten legal proceedings.

The company was organized in New York in 1902 by H. V. Reed, Ray A. Wright, and Henry D. Sayre, and 220 acres of land in the Corozal mining district in Porto Rico were purchased. In this tract there are some old gold mines which were worked to some extent by the Spaniards.

The concern was organized under the laws of South Dakota with a capitalization of $5,000,000—5,000,000 shares at $1 a share.

Wright, was was formerly auditor of the New York and Mobile Steamship company, and Reed, who was a promoter, came to Chicago to raise money. Judge Chetlain became interested in the company and invested some money. He was made a director of the concern and the head and front of the business in the west. Most of the other officers were eastern men.

Big Card for Promoters.

The connection of Judge Chetlain's name with the company was a big card for the promoters in Chicago. Because of the prestige which the jurist's position lent the undertaking, H. M. Blake & Co. became interested and made arrangements to float a large block of the stock. Mr. Blake succeeded in interesting a large number of his friends, who invested.

The manner in which the stock was sold throws an interesting sidelight on Judge Chetlain's custom of mixing business with his judicial duties. The preliminary negotiations for the sale of the stock were carried on by Blake & Co., but the prospective investors were sent to Judge Chetlain's courtroom to complete the deal.

During these years an imposing prospectus of the company was issued broadcast over the country. It went on to describe the district in which the mines were located and the quality of the ore which would be taken out just as soon as the project could be got under way. There were alluring tables setting forth different assays of the ore, and numerous reports, official and otherwise, describing the prospects of the company in glowing terms. In all, between 200 and 300 persons in the west were induced to invest.

Stockholders Become Restive.

Judge Chetlain obtained control of about 1,000,000 shares of the stock. Early in 1904 the stockholders began to get restive. A private meeting was arranged with Judge Chetlain at which the jurist pleaded for more time and expressed the belief that large profits would be realized eventually. The scheme then dragged on with no better results and the stockholders began to clamor once more. They failed to get satisfactory reports from the judge and finally in the latter part of last year a meeting of the principal investors was called.

Sayre, Wright, and Reed came from New York to attend this meeting. Expert reports on the mines were read and Judge Chetlain made an enthusiastic speech on the prospects of the enterprise. The company was then reorganized, Campbell Allison was made president and Judge Chetlain withdrew as a director. His name has not appeared on the literature of the company since that time.

Questioners Sent to Chetlain.

At that time and several times thereafter Mr. Blake called on the officers of the company for a statement, but obtained no satisfaction. President Allison referred all disgruntled investors to Judge Chetlain.

One of the mysteries of the operations of the company concerns a timber land deal in Porto Rico, which, it appears, was not related to the main purpose for which the stockholders invested their money. A part of the funds was diverted for investment in the timber enterprise, from which no profits have been realized up to date.

Since the recent revelations of Judge Chetlain's financial operations the investors in the mining company again have become clamorous.

"I have been trying to get President Allison to call a meeting of the stockholders in order to obtain a report on the condition of the company," said one of the brokers who floated a part of the stock. "I feel that my honor is at stake, for the reason that I induced many of my personal friends to invest. My chief recommendation for purchase of the stock was that a man holding the position of judge of the Superior court was heavily interested in the enterprise. If a statement of the company's condition is not forthcoming at once a number of the dissatisfied stockholders intend to retain an attorney and see what pressure can be brought to bear on the officers of the concern in a legal way."

Excitement Fatal to Old Woman.

Mrs. F. B. Shaw, the aged mother of Mrs. Cornelia Woodward, one of the alleged victims of Curtis and Denison, died yesterday of old age and excitement superinduced by revelations in the case. She lived with her daughter at 130 Ashland boulevard.

FALLS SIX STORIES TO DEATH.

Worker in Field Building Being Razed Loses Balance and Plunges Down Shaft.

Joseph Polany, 38 years old, fell last evening from the seventh to the first floor of the Marshall Field building, State and Washington streets, which is being razed, and was killed instantly. Polany was working on the seventh floor at the center of the building, went too close to a shaft, and, losing his balance, fell. He lived with his family at 742 Grand avenue.

FISHER SNUBBED BY "BIBLE CLASS."

Transportation Committee Decides to Finish Ordinance Before Reporting.

TUNNEL BEAMS AN ISSUE.

Dupont Thinks Steel Unnecessary, but Traction People Disagree.

"Dr.' Fisher's bible class," as an irreverent alderman has dubbed the council committee on local transportation, rather got away from "the doctor" yesterday. It failed to take his advice. Formerly the members have listened dutifully, in fact, reverently, while the "doctor" didactically explained what they ought and ought not to do, and it was this attitude which gave the committee its nickname of the "bible class."

The question at issue was not important. "Dr." Fisher wanted an incomplete tunnel lowering and trolleyizing ordinance reported at once and perfected in the council meeting afterwards. Ald. Bennett suggested that it would be wiser to wait until a complete ordinance could be framed before reporting any. The committee followed Ald. Bennett's suggestion.

The dispute arose over the kind of temporary roofs which are to be put in the tunnels. Engineer Artingstall, for the Union Traction company, which has to do and pay for the work, had planned for reinforced concrete supported by steel cross beams four feet apart. The cost would be $160,000 for the La Salle and Washington street tunnels.

Dupont Would Omit Steel Beams.

A. B. Dupont, who is Mayor Dunne's traction expert and who has made a reputation for building street car lines cheaply, suggested that the steel cross beams might be omitted and the reinforced concrete depended on to support itself. This plan would cost only $60,000 for the two tunnels. He got City Engineer Ericson to agree with him.

Mr. Artingstall objected that this plan was not safe and it would take six months for the concrete to "set" so it would be strong enough to bear its own weight.

"Dr." Fisher suggested that the best way was to report the ordinance without the specifications and have it simply read that the work be done on plans approved by the commissioner of public works. W. W. Gurley replied that the engineers evidently were disagreed and the Union Traction company did not want to start work until it knew what it was obligated to do.

The city engineers made speeches advocating the Dupont all concrete plan, arguing that this plan could be carried out for $100,000 less than the Artingstall plan.

Offers to Let City Do the Work.

"You don't suppose we are offering to spend this extra $100,000 just for the fun of spending it, do you?" asked Mr. Gurley. "We are willing to spend the money because we want a safe job. We are not anxious to have the top of a tunnel caving in some day when there are street cars under it. We want to do the work according to standard methods which we know are safe.

"Your man says his plan is safe, but acknowledges it is an experiment. Perhaps it is safe, but we don't want to try experiments in this matter. We have got to do the work and pay for it. Why not let us do it in our own way, which is known to be safe?"

It was explained that the reason the city wanted to keep the cost down was that, in case the city ever started in the street railway business and used the tunnels, it would have to reimburse the company for what it had spent in lowering them.

"All right," said Mr. Gurley. "I'll tell you what I'll agree to. You figure that you can do the work your way for $60,000. We will give you $75,000 and let you do the work and assume the responsibility. You can make $15,000 clear that way. For ourselves, we don't believe in your plan. We don't believe it will work, and we are unwilling to take the responsibility of carrying it out."

"Dr." Fisher Voted Down.

"Dr." Fisher instructed the aldermen to the effect that they could approve all the rest of the ordinance and then put the specifications for this work in next Monday, when it would come up for passage.

Ald. Bennett objected on the ground that the aldermen had a right to a complete copy of the ordinance before they were asked to vote on it, and moved to postpone consideration for a week, when the ordinance could be finished. The motion carried on a viva voce vote.

At the opening of the session a letter from Ald. Foreman was read, in which he explained that he had to be in Philadelphia, but asked that the ordinance be deferred a week on the ground that he "was afraid it was more far reaching than generally supposed," and should not be acted on hastily.

The "Dr." Fisher ordinance for the printing of the Mueller law certificates, intended to make possible a test of their validity, was recommended. The mayor had the firm of Pettibone & Co., named in the ordinance as drawn by "Dr." Fisher, stricken out on account of the objections of the typographical union and the Western Bank Note and Engraving company substituted.

TRACTION PLAN IS DISCUSSED.

New Yorkers Interested in Chicago Lines Considering Way to Reach Agreement with Municipality.

New York, May 21.—(Special.)—Representatives of the Chicago Union Traction company are in conference here today with attorneys for the underlying companies and with New Yorkers interested in the properties. The dispute between the receivers, the underlying companies, and the superior company in regard to the terms of the leases was discussed, and it was said an agreement probably would be reached.

The conferees also discussed a plan for the settlement of the whole traction tangle in Chicago, which it is believed will bring about an agreement between the eastern interests and the municipal authorities of Chicago. The plan contemplates the organization of a new company to take over the franchises and property of the Chicago Union Traction company and its subsidiary companies. It is felt this could be done in shorter time than would be required for the contemplated reorganization of the Union Traction company, and it would put the eastern interests in a position to deal with Chicago authorities more speedily.

The Chicago authorities are straightening out their end of the tangle by preparing for an early issue of $75,000,000 certificates under the Mueller law in order to secure a court ruling as to the legality of the certificates. If they are held legal, negotiations between the city and the railway company can then be conducted with greater assurance.

LONE BASS CAUSES AN ARREST

George S. Welles Detained by Game Warden When Outlawed Fish Is Discovered in His "String."

One black bass in a basket of sunfish caused George S. Welles, president of the Welles Fuel Saving company, Railway Exchange building, a bad quarter of an hour, besides being responsible for his arrest and the confiscation of three fishing rods at the hands of Deputy Game Warden Michael Kleist on Sunday. The charge against Mr. Welles was catching game fish out of season.

The arrest was made as Mr. Welles was returning from a day's sport on the Fox river near Rochester. He was on board a Wisconsin Central train, and at Wilmot the game warden came through the car and demanded to see the fish. When he found the black bass in Mr. Welles' basket an argument ensued. Friends went Mr. Welles' bond. The hearing was held at Wilmot yesterday afternoon, and the defendant entered appearance by an attorney, who had been authorized to pay the fine and costs.

T. A. Rickerson and his two little girls, also of Chicago, were arrested by the warden at the same time.

AROUSED BY PARK DEATHS

COMMISSIONERS MAY STOP BOATING IN THE LAGOONS.

Four Drownings in Small Recreation Grounds Occur Within a Week and Fatalities in Jackson and Washington Parks in Two Years Are More than Equaled—Inquest Is Started Into Double Tragedy of Sunday Evening.

Four drownings within a week in the small parks on the southwest side have led the south park commissioners to discuss the withdrawal of boating on those lagoons. The latter have already attained in the first month of their existence a record for fatalities eclipsing that of Jackson and Washington parks for two years.

"Boating seems to be a comparative novelty to many persons residing near the recreation parks," said Commissioner Henry G. Foreman. "At least that is the only way to account for the recklessness and ensuing deaths which have marked the opening weeks in Ogden and Sherman parks. There has been more foolhardiness displayed there than in an entire season in Jackson park.

Regulations Are Strict.

"The board itself has taken every precaution in its power. At each of the parks there are five patrolmen, life savers galore, and clearly printed warnings not to rock the boat or to change places while out on the water. The rules are strict against renting boats to boys under 18 years of age and to people in an intoxicated condition. In spite of this these four fatalities have occurred."

"It seems obvious the commissioners have done everything in their power to safeguard rowing on these small lagoons," said Supt. Foster. "I think people will learn the proper handling of the boats. If they don't there is no other step left but to withdraw them."

Four Deaths by Drowning.

The fatalities which have thus far occurred are:

JOY, EDWARD, 19 years old, 6908 Marshfield avenue, drowned Wednesday afternoon at Ogden park.

WILSON, JAMES, 18 years old, 3223 May street, drowned on same occasion; witnesses said the five occupants of the boat were trying to "change places."

WISE, LOUIS, 18 years old, 6800 Hermitage avenue, drowned on Wednesday in Ogden park.

Deputy Coroner C. V. Barrett opened the inquest yesterday into the deaths of O'Gara and Wilson at Kenny's undertaking rooms, 5438 South Halsted street. Three companions of the dead men—H. Powers, 5332 Aberdeen street; Frank Kenny, 5300 Aberdeen street; and Thomas Noonan, Fifty-first and Aberdeen streets—identified the bodies and described the accident, which, they said, occurred while they were trying to relieve each other at the oars. The inquest over young Joy and Wise will be resumed this afternoon at 6905 South Halsted street.

Masked Boys Rob Three in Park.

Three persons were held up and robbed in Garfield park Sunday evening by two boys, apparently not over 17 years of age, who carried revolvers and wore handkerchiefs over their faces in bandit style.

Their first victim was Joseph Gordon, 1527 West Adams street, who was sitting on a bench with a young woman. The two robbers approached and demanded their valuables. A gold watch and chain and $35 were taken from Gordon, while his companion was robbed of a gold chain.

About an hour later Julius Neuman, Hamlin and Ohio streets, was stopped near the entrance of the park and robbed of $17 and a watch.

Both the victims declared that they could find no park policemen near and reported their losses at a police station. The robbers got away without detection.

GEARY WARNS WORKINGMEN TO KEEP OUT OF POLITICS.

Suspended Head of State Free Employment Bureaus Declares He Is Going Into Some Private Business.

David Ross, secretary of the state board of labor commissioners, came up from Springfield yesterday for a private conference with George W. Geary, who, until suspended recently by Gov. Deneen, was superintendent of the south side branch of the state free employmelt bureau and inspector of all the private employment agencies in Cook county.

Mr. Geary has been summoned to appear before the commissioners at Springfield next Monday. He was business agent for the structural iron workers before he secured his political job, and he still is a delegate to the Chicago Federation of Labor and a political worker.

"There is no trouble about my work here," said Geary last night. "I am quitting this place because I prefer private life. There are too many knockers and too much suspicion. What business am I going into? Well, that is private, as yet. I am through with politics. It is no place for a laboring man."

George Reich, assistant superintendent of the north side branch, has been placed in charge of the office, while F. D. Whipp, audit clerk for the governor, goes through the books and pay rolls.

POLICE SEEK A SALVATIONIST.

The police are seeking Samuel Forster, 1158 Wilcox avenue, 35 years old, leader of a Salvation Army string band, who is said to have eloped on Sunday night with two 14 year old members of his Sunday school class—Ella Fife, 537 Park avenue, and Corinne Smith, 583 Warren avenue.

The girls were arrested yesterday in Campbell avenue when they were returning to their homes, and were taken to the Warren avenue police station, where they met their parents, who had been searching for them all night.

The girls said Forster, after he had finished conducting an open air Salvation Army meeting at Van Buren street and Western avenue, took them to a rooming house at Paulina and Congress streets, where they remained all night. He left the girls in the morning, but did not return to his home yesterday.

Mrs. Forster declared the charge that her husband ran off with the girls was false until she heard the girls' story at the police station.

"I hope he will be prosecuted," she then exclaimed angrily. "Hanging is too good for that man."

FIREMAN IS FATALLY INJURED.

Z. D. Green of Hammond Falls Thirty Feet While Fighting Flames in Business Block.

Z. D. Green, the oldest fireman in Hammond, Ind., was fatally injured last evening while fighting a fire, and lies at the point of death in St. Margaret's hospital. Both his arms were broken, his skull was fractured, his hip shattered in four places, and internal injuries were sustained in a fall which was witnessed by hundreds of spectators, many of whom were women and children. The Ahlendorf business block was destroyed, the loss being $10,000.

HELD AS SELLER OF COCAINE.

Druggist Colletto Bound Over to Criminal Court on Evidence Secured by Miss Jessie Binford.

Vincenzo Colletto, a druggist at Polk and Clark streets, was held to the Criminal court in bonds of $500 before Justice Caverly yesterday, charged with selling cocaine illegally. The prosecution was conducted by the branch of the Legal Aid society at Hull house, in charge of Miss Jessie Binford. The matter will be brought before the May grand jury this week and if possible will be pressed to a trial and conviction.

MOVES A PART OF STEWART AVENUE

Council Votes to Settle Dispute That Has Lasted More than Twenty Years.

SWAPS WITH A RAILWAY.

Name of Chicago Avenue Between Boulevard and Lake Changed to East Way.

The city council last evening finally disposed of the long debated and much vexed Stewart avenue question. Stewart avenue and the use of it by the Pennsylvania road has been before the council in one form or another for over twenty years, but with the elevation of that road's tracks, which will be done shortly, the last has probably been heard of it.

The council action was to agree to a bargain with the road whereby, in consideration of the city's giving up what little is left of Stewart avenue, between Thirty-first and Thirty-third streets, the railway company is to dedicate a new street, 125 feet to the east, move the sewers and water mains, and lay paving. It also is to pay the city $4,500 as compensation. The bargain was made so the track elevation work can go on, it having now reached Thirty-first street.

The original ordinance made the compensation $3,900, but Ald. Richert made the point that as the road was getting 12,000 square feet more than it was giving and the land was worth 36 cents a square foot, it was not enough, and he moved to make it $4,500. Ald. Kohout's motion to lay the amendment on the table was lost and then the ordinance was passed, 55 to 8, the objectors being:

Ald. Coughlin, Kenna, Harding, Cullerton, Conlon, Powers, Sullivan, Kohout—8.

Unique Order Passed.

Ald. Wendling did a unique thing in council history. He had passed two orders which he expects to repeal ordinances on the basis of which several millions of dollars already have been spent. The ordinances were those for the elevation of the Pennsylvania and Grand Trunk tracks, and his orders were that all work be stopped until the reason why there were no subways at Forty-eighth street, Hoyne and California avenues, is explained. Ald. Wendling was so much in earnest that the council passed his orders just to oblige him.

Ald. Pringle wanted to know why his order on the commissioner of public works to build, at a cost of $5,000, a temporary viaduct over the Pennsylvania tracks at Thirty-fifth street had not been compiled with and had the order repassed to give emphasis to it.

Ald. Harkin had passed a resolution which may have considerable to do with a settlement of the bad street question. It recited that it is the duty of the city, not the property owner, to repair and repave improved streets where the pavement has worn out and suggested that the special assessment committee make an investigation of the subject and report so that the council may make a representation to the charter convention when it meets again. The idea is to create a special fund out of which the cost of repairing and repaving can be paid.

New Name for Chicago Avenue.

On motion of Ald. Foell, the name of that part of Chicago avenue from Lincoln Park boulevard avenue to the lake was changed to East Way. A suggestion from Ald. Conlon that it be called Easy Way was received with silent scorn.

On motion of the aldermen from the Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh wards all poles and wires were ordered removed from Twenty-second street, between Ashland avenue and the river.

On the report of the finance committee the judgment of Col. Francis A. Riddle, for services in the Weir & McKechney cases for $4,000 was compromised by the payment of $3,000.

Chairman Werno of the local transportation committee reported the Mueller certificate ordinance and it was deferred and published.

Mayor Dunne appointed Lawrence R. Buckley clerk of the Warren avenue police court in place of James McGrath, removed. Buckley was formerly a deputy coroner and the appointment was made to suit Ald. Coglsdine, who is one of the mayor's friends on the local transportation committee.

SOCIALISTS DECIDE TO HOLD PRIMARIES UNDER OLD LAW.

Failure of Gov. Deneen to Sign Measure Probably Will Put the City to an Expense of Twelve Thousand Dollars.

The socialist county committee decided last night to take no chances on a primary election for the nomination of candidates for the fall election. It declined to revoke its call for primaries for Saturday and unless the election board finds some reason for ruling that the party is not entitled to hold a primary under the old law, with a new one effective July 1, the city will be put to an expense of $12,000.

It was intended by the socialist managers that the call should be revoked. When the county committee met in the evening to formally revoke its call one of the committeemen explained Gov. Deneen had not yet signed the new bill and it technically was not a law.

This view of the situation prevailed and it was decided to hang on to what was in sight and hold a primary election Saturday. It means $5 each for the socialist judges and clerks.

The democratic state central committee is planning to hold a meeting within two weeks to consider the calling of the democratic state convention. Bloomington, Peoria, Decatur, and East St. Louis want the meeting. The new law will require that the call be issued thirty-three days before the primaries.

FILE ANSWER IN FIELD SUIT.

Executors of Dead Merchant's Estate Reply to Mrs. Beatty's Petition Regarding Railroad Bonds.

Answer was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by the Merchants' Loan and Trust company, Chauncey Keep, and Arthur B. Jones to the suit brought several weeks ago by Mrs. Ethel F. Beatty, daughter of the late Marshall Field. The suit, which was a friendly action, was directed against the executors of the will of the dead merchant, and in it Mrs. Beatty seeks to have the court decree to her $750,000 worth of railroad bonds.

The answer, which is brief, admits all the formal averments, and the defendants ask that the court determine the rights of Mrs. Beatty.

The bonds were left in trust for Mrs. Beatty by Marshall Field several months before his death in New York. To them there is attached a memorandum in which Mr. Field said they were given by him to his daughter some time prior to that.

HUNT CROSS OF AN OLD CHURCH

Historical Society Members Will Try to Recover Relic of Father Marquette's Ministry.

An expedition to search for the iron cross that adorned a little log church built by Father Marquette on the river bank near where Twenty-second street is now located, will start next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Lexington hotel.

The expedition will be under the auspices of the Chicago Historical society and the Catholic Writers' guild, and was organized by Miss Genevieve Cooney, 325 Forty-first street.

The church was built about 1746, and when it was torn down the cross was left nearby in what was then woods. If the cross can be found it is planned by the historical society to have the spot marked with a tablet.

40 CENSUS TAKERS QUIT.

FIND CHILDREN FEW IN LAKE SHORE DRIVE AND KENWOOD.

Enumerators, Who Are Paid a Cent Each for Minors They Locate for the School Board, Give Various Excuses for Yielding Their Positions to Others—Ghetto Visitors Are Fortunate — Woman Finds Unnamed Twins and Gets Credit for Work.

Census takers for the school board assigned to Lake Shore drive and Kenwood precincts gave up their jobs yesterday. So did those who had walked all day along Calumet, Prairie, and Michigan avenues ringing doorbells and trying to locate minors. Forty enumerators handed their resignations to Secretary Larson after they had spent a day scouring the "race suicide" districts in the effort to find a dinner's worth of children. The census takers are paid at the rate of 1 cent a name for all children located.

Every enumerator wanted to be assigned to the Ghetto, and forty of those who were given fashionable precincts gave up the work as bad and unprofitable.

"Like a Needle in a Haystack."

"I have the rheumatism and really must quit," said one enumerator as he hobbled into Secretary Larson's office and sank into a chair exhausted.

"All right," replied Mr. Larson, "how much do I owe you?"

"I guess about the price of a beer and a free lunch," responded the census taker, dejectedly. "I've been tramping along the boulevards all day and about the only children I located belonged to the coachmen. It was worth about $30 to find one. It was like huntin' for a needle in a haystack."

"I'm ill," said an elderly woman, as she approached Secretary Larson's desk, haltingly. "Here's my book and my resignation."

So it went. Fifteen enumerators who had been assigned to the fashionable wards announced they had found permanent positions; a half dozen found themselves suddenly overcome by illness; one had to go home and look after the baby, and several were discharged for incompetency.

Ghetto Workers Are Busy.

At a late hour it was reported that all of the enumerators who had been assigned to the Ghetto were still at work. So were those who had been sent into the stockyards district and into the communities around the settlement houses.

At 6 o'clock Secretary Larson's telephone bell rang.

"Hello! Is this Mr. Larson?" came the voice over the wire. "Well, this is Mrs. McGrath—Mrs. Katherine McGrath, one of your enumerators. I'm at the corner of Halsted and Fourteenth streets. I wanted to report that I've taken the names of 400 children today. I arrived at one house just after twins had been born. They haven't been named yet. How shall I put them down?"

"Just indicate that they are unnamed," advised Secretary Larson.

"And will I get my 2 cents for them?"

"Certainly. What? No, I'll have to assign you to some other district tomorrow. You see, everybody wants the Ghetto district, and I'll have to change you about so that every enumerator will have an equal chance."

Linguist Is Fortunate.

"Hello!" said Secretary Larson, taking down the telephone receiver in answer to another call. "O, yes. Have you got any names? Three hundred? That's good. Bring in your book and I'll give you your territory for tomorrow.

"That was former Rabbi Sigmund Frey," he said, hanging up the telephone and swinging around in his chair. "His education is a great benefit to him. I'll have to keep him in the districts where there is no race suicide. He speaks Yiddish, Italian, Greek, Polish, Bohemian, Lithuanian, German, French, and English."

CANDIDATE COOPER MEEKLY ANSWERS LAWYER'S SLUR.

Aspirant to Supreme Bench Honors Explains Disappearance of Two Cent Stamp and Makes Good the Loss.

That it takes a political campaign to chasten the soul of a lawyer and develop a meek, we-strive-to-please spirit may be seen from the experience of William Fenimore Cooper, democratic nominee for the Supreme court bench, in his correspondence with Attorney John McKinlay over a missing 2 cent stamp.

Mr. Cooper, whose desire to be gentlemanly to all is not lessened by the fact that he is the democratic standard bearer in a republican district, recently gave 6,000 of his cards to an addressing concern, with a list of lawyers to whom they were to be sent. He avers that he furnished postage for the entire quantity.

But it so happened that the stamp on the letter addressed to Attorney John McKinlay of Marshall Field & Co. became detached in the mails and compelled the lawyer to pay the 2 cents due. Surprised at this apparently ingenious method of campaigning, McKinlay tartly wrote across the envelope, "Why don't you pay your own postage?" and returned it in another envelope equally innocent of stamps.

The candidate paid the postage readily enough, but was disconcerted, pained, and worried at the contents. There was a delegation at the door and a speech to be prepared for Joliet next Saturday night, but these were put aside while Mr. Cooper hastened to undo the wrong and save McKinlay's vote, if possible, before it was too late. The latter has now received, duly stamped, a letter of apology containing, neatly glued to the upper corner, a 2 cent stamp.

"I hope he won't think I did that on purpose," said the candidate later, as he completed the draft of his Joliet speech. "You can't be too careful these days. But, after all, he may be a republican by birth."

BERWYN TALKS OF KISSING.

Departed Teacher Who Was Involved in Charge Writes, Denying Intention of Suicide.

Rowland Boogen, 17 years old, 3823 Maple avenue, Berwyn, said last evening that he has been receiving letters from Miss Annie Holcomb, former teacher of the Emerson school of Berwyn, every two or three days since she left for California. Boogen refused to reveal the contents of the letters, but said Miss Holcomb strenuously denied that she had ever expressed an intention to commit suicide. The boy's mother said: "If the kissing episode took place it happened through Supt. Robert K. Row taking advantage of the girl's position. I have known the girl for five years and never knew her to commit an impropriety."

POLICE SEEK AUTO IN VAIN.

Machine That Ran Over Ninety Year Old Ebenezer Prindle Still Unidentified.

Search by the Evanston police for the automobile driver who ran down and probably fatally injured Ebenezer Prindle Sunday afternoon proved fruitless. Mr. Prindle is suffering from bruises and cuts about the head and body, which it is feared may prove fatal because of his advanced age. He will be 90 years old within a few days.

ORGANIZE TO STOP CONTAGION.

Physicians and Settlement Workers Meet at Union Restaurant and Take Steps to Form Association.

Physicians and settlement workers discussed at a meeting in the Union restaurant last evening plans for organizing a society for the prevention of contagious diseases resulting from immorality or the amelioration of their consequences. The meeting was the result of a recommendation made recently by the Chicago Medical society.

STRIKE IS FEARED BY "L" EMPLOYES.

Metropolitan Serves Notice of Desire to Cancel Contract with the Union.

TWO MEETINGS CALLED.

Workmen to Give Their Committee Authority for Further Action; Printers Make Gain.

Signs of approaching trouble on the Metropolitan elevated road were seen by employes yesterday when the company served notice that it desired to cancel its contract with the union. The agreement under which the 600 men are working expires May 31.

General Superintendent H. G. Hetsler attempted to allay apprehensions by announcing the company was willing to enter into a new agreement on different terms. He refused to state, however, whether the wage advance asked by the employes will be granted.

In preparation for a possible strike the employes' committee during the day issued notices for two massmeetings tonight and tomorrow morning. The situation will be discussed and the committee probably will be given authority to act in case negotiations with the company fail.

Call Asks for Authority.

Both meetings will be held in the hall at 404 Ogden avenue. The first will be attended by the night employes while the second will be for day workers. The call, signed by J. Doyle, R. Page, and B. Oakfield, was as follows:

Your request to revise the wage contract has been refused and the contract has been canceled by the management of the company, to take effect May 31. The committee is now calling you together to get authority for further action.

Secretary W. E. Downing of the Elevated Road Employes' union said he still had hope the company and men would reach some agreement to prevent a strike. Clarence O. Pratt, chairman of the general executive board of the Amalgamated Association of Street Car Employes, has been called here. He will seek conferences with railroad officials today.

Negotiations between the managers of the "loop" and the employes will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock at 136 Adams street.

Printers Gain in Strike.

Another gain was reported by Typographical union, No. 16 in the printers' eight hour day strike when Stevens, Maloney & Co., 143 La Salle street, agreed to shorten the hours of labor from nine to eight and to employ union compositors.

The fixture hangers' strike now is the only existing disturbance in the building industry, 400 glaziers who walked out two weeks ago having been ordered to return to work in the morning. The glaziers went on strike to enforce an increase in wages of 50 cents a week.

Demands for higher wages were filed with twenty-two railroads by 4,000 freight handlers. Sisson Thompson, representing the general managers, said a meeting of officials will be called shortly to consider the wage question.

Reunion of Chicago Pioneers.

The annual reunion of the Pioneers of Chicago will be held at Memorial hall in the public library next Saturday from 3 to 6 and from 7 to 10 p. m. The Pioneers' Sons and Daughters will participate. Pictures of Chicago in its early days will be exhibited in the evening by Frank M. Smith. All old settlers are invited.

Blackmailers Must Go to Prison.

Motion for a new trial and motion in arrest of judgment in the cases of Isaac Hartman and William Maloney, charged with blackmail, were overruled by Judge Honoré yesterday and the men were sentenced to serve an indefinite term in the penitentiary.

WITNESSES TELL OF KOPF MURDER

Two Court Clerks Say They Saw County Commissioner Stabbed by Roberts.

WIDOW PLACED ON STAND

The most important testimony for the state at the opening of the trial of George Gill Roberts for the murder of John V. Kopf, was given late yesterday afternoon in Judge Kersten's court by John P. Lanahan, who declared that he saw Roberts thrust a knife into Kopf's side. He testified also that he heard Frank C. Farnum yell: "Get Kopf," just before the stabbing.

Lanahan, who is one of the clerks of the criminal court, said he went to the polling place at 1460 West Madison street, Nov. 28 last, to vote in the annual election of officers for the Thirteenth Ward Republican club and witnessed all the trouble which ended in the death of Kopf. Assistant State's Attorney Holt stated at the outset that he would show that Kopf was murdered as a result of a political feud in the Thirteenth ward.

On the other hand, Kickham Scanlan, attorney for the defense, declared in his opening statement that Kopf and his followers had stirred up the intrigue and that Kopf fell victim to his own conspiracy. This point he attempted to bring out in the cross examining of witnesses.

Witness Tells of the Stabbing.

Lanahan told the history of the stabbing in detail.

"Just after I reached the polling place," he said, "Mr. Kopf made a speech to the members of the club, calling on them for fair play and for order. He admonished them against ruffianism. After that the voting started, but somebody yelled to the voters to wait a minute, and George H. Coffman, who had just asked for a ballot from Farnum, stopped his preparations to cast his vote.

"Farnum yelled out: 'Well, if you people don't vote then the judges and clerks will.'

"At that moment the cry arose, 'They are stuffing the ballot box!' Coffman told Kopf that the other faction was stuffing the ballot box, and Kopf walked up to the ballot box to see what the trouble was. Roberts was standing near him. I heard Farnum say, 'Get Kopf,' and then I saw Roberts strike at him with an under swing of the right arm. Immediately afterward Kopf held his side and said, 'I'm stabbed.'

"As Roberts drew back his arm I saw the open knife he had used still in his hand. The officers grabbed Roberts and took the knife away. Then they led him out of the room."

Kopf's Widow Weeps in Court.

Earlier in the afternoon George H. Coffman, a clerk in the court of Judge Dupuy, gave a similar account of the affray. Coffman, who is an elderly man and a resident of the Thirteenth ward, testified that he saw Kopf's enemies stuffing the ballot box.

"I knew Kopf for six years before this affair," began Coffman, "and we were good friends. I was present at the election and I heard Farnum say 'Get Kopf.' The next thing I knew Kopf was standing on the platform holding his side. Blood was all over his clothes."

As Coffman showed the position of Kopf after the stabbing, Mrs. Kopf, who was listening intently to his testimony, broke into tears. Near her were her son, her father-in-law and mother-in-law, and other members of the Kopf family. All of them seemed deeply affected by the recital of the story of the stabbing.

Attorney Scanlan cross examined Coffman. "Is it not true," asked the lawyer, "that you have held political offices through the influence of Kopf?"

"Yes," answered Coffman, a trifle reluctantly.

Coffman reiterated the statement that some of the men at the election stuffed the ballot box. He said Farnum ran away after the stabbing.

At this moment Roberts, who was sitting several feet back of Attorney Scanlan, jumped up suddenly and started toward his counsel. For a moment the bailiffs were startled. They thought their prisoner was making an attempt to escape. The excitement subsided when Roberts again sat down after speaking to the attorney.

Just behind Roberts sat Farnum writing notes on the evidence. He appeared to be more deeply interested in the testimony than the prisoner.

Mrs. Kopf the First Witness.

Mrs. Kopf, attired in a gown of mourning, was the first witness. She identified the clothes worn by her husband at the time of the stabbing. They were stained with blood. She grew weak at the sight of the clothing and was allowed to take her seat without being questioned further.

A report that Mrs. Kopf wanted to give an ante-mortem statement made by her husband was declared by Attorney Holt to be unfounded. He said Kopf never made a technical ante-mortem statement, inasmuch as he thought until the last that he would recover.

"I would gladly introduce such a statement if a legal one had been made," Mr. Holt said. "I want to be fair to all sides."

Declares Stabbing Caused Death.

Dr. Warren H. Hunter reiterated on the witness stand the statement he made at the inquest, that Kopf died from the wound inflicted by the stabbing.

Attorneys Holt and Scanlan both made lengthy opening statements about the case before the first witness was called.

"We will attempt to show that a conspiracy of the Kopf faction existed for two or three days before the election of the club," said Scanlan. "They wanted to bring men from all parts of Chicago to regain control of the election. The defense will show that a short time previous to the election Kopf led a crowd of men into the polling place. Many of them were armed. We will show that there was no stuffing of the ballot box."

Attorney Holt in his opening arguments said Kopf and his men were only trying to get a square deal.

The trial will last several days. The case for the state in all probability will be concluded on Thursday. Then the defense will bring in witnesses to show if possible that Roberts acted in self-defense.

Among the republicans of the Thirteenth ward the case is attracting especial interest. Messrs. Jackman, Jenson, Waugh, and others attended the opening of the trial at various times during the day.

ACCUSED BY THEIR CLIENT

LAWYERS INVOLVED IN BANKRUPTCY CASE BY B. A. THAYER.

Manufacturer Declares He Was Deceived in Proceedings in Federal Court to Have His Debts Made Void—Tells of a Spirited Tilt with Attorneys, in Which He Was Threatened with Prison—His Treasurer Formerly His Engineer.

An investigation of charges of collusion to defraud creditors in the bankruptcy case of Bert A. Thayer, a soap and perfume manufacturer, was begun yesterday by Judge Landis in the United States District court. Lewis W. Parker and Henry M. Hagan, attorneys for Thayer, are accused of having collected $7,000 of Thayer's accounts immediately before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy with the alleged intention of dividing the proceeds with their client.

The petition for an investigation was filed by Edwin D. Buell, representing the Royal Trust company, trustees in bankruptcy.

Claims Lawyers Deceived Him.

"While I was at French Lick Springs in February I received word that a petition in bankruptcy had been filed," said Thayer. "When I returned my attorneys advised me to go to Cuba for at least six weeks or until the bankruptcy matter was settled. Finally I accepted their advice and left Chicago. Later I came back to testify before a referee in bankruptcy, and the attorneys instructed me how to answer the questions so as to deceive the court.

"Afterward I discovered my attorneys had deceived me."

W. E. Pittsford, promoted from the position of engineer to that of treasurer of the company by Thayer, testified he wrote a series of false letters to Thayer during his absence, misrepresenting conditions. The hearing, which was continued into the evening, will be resumed tomorrow evening.

Tells of Clash with Lawyers.

An evening session of the hearing developed a story told by Thayer of a scene between him and his attorneys which culminated, he says, in sharp words.

"I told Mr. Parker I was going out to see the creditors myself," related the witness, "and I asked him to give me a bill for his services.

"Next morning when I appeared at his office Parker greeted me with the information that 'new complications' had arisen. He said Pittsford wanted one-third of all that was left."

"What did you say to that?" asked Attorney Scott.

"Well, I became angry and told Parker he was not going to 'put the screws' on me any longer. 'I'm going out among the creditors,' I added, and Parker replied: 'You'll go to the penitentiary if you are not careful.'

"'If I go to the penitentiary you'll go with me, for I shall enjoy your company,' I replied."

Feared Prison for His Employer.

W. A. Pittsford, who was the treasurer, admitted on questioning by Judge Landis he had deceived Thayer as to the status of his financial affairs.

"What trouble was Mr. Thayer likely to get into should he return to the city?" asked Attorney Scott of the witness.

"Well, there have been failures in Chicago, you know," replied Pittsford, "where it was best for the bankrupt to disappear, and I did not want to see Mr. Thayer go to the penitentiary."

The examination of Attorney Parker was begun, but only preliminary questions were asked. He will be further examined this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

AUDITORS REPORT ON ZION.

Judge Landis Receives the Statement and Will Examine It in Court This Morning.

Judge Landis received last evening the report of the auditors who have been investigating the financial conditions of the Zion City corporation. Because of other business in the court he did not have time to review the report, but issued a call to the attorneys interested to be present in court this morning at 10 o'clock.

STUDENTS ON A RAMPAGE.

FIVE RIOT CALLS RECEIVED BY EVANSTON POLICE.

Residents of University Suburb Are Roused from Their Sleep by Stones Thrown Against Houses by Members of Fraternities—Three Hundred Feet of Sidewalk on Campus Is Torn Up—Dean Holgate Is Assaulted—Only One Arrest Is Made.

Five riot calls were telephoned to the Evanston police station last night as a sequel of the pranks of 200 students of Northwestern university, who awoke hundreds of persons from their sleep by cat calls and hammering on their doors.

Arthur Blair, 720 Foster street, was arrested, near Willard hall, where all the coeds had been aroused from sleep by shouts and the throwing of large pieces of wood and stones against the sides of the building. Several women on their way home had been stopped and annoyed by the students.

Frats Tear Up Sidewalk.

Members of the Delta Upsilon, Phi Delta Theta, Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Chi, Beta Theta Pi, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon societies joined in the noisemaking and wound up their evening's sport by tearing up 300 feet of wooden sidewalk near the university campus.

When the police hurried to Willard hall, where the disturbance was greatest, the students saw them coming, and all escaped but Blair, who was throwing stones at the front door of the hall when he was arrested.

Blair protested, saying he was on his way home and had taken no part in the disturbance, but his protest failed to impress his captor, who had seen him throw one stone, and he was still holding a piece of wood in the other.

Dean Holgate Is Knocked Down.

After leaving Willard hall the students went to the university campus and caused considerable anxiety among residents living near. While the students were wrecking the sidewalk Dean Holgate of the university heard their cries, and running to the street seized two of the disturbers. Before the arrival of the police he was forced to release his hold on the boys, who knocked him down and dragged him several feet. Warrants will be issued this morning for all who are known to have taken part in the disturbance.

WOUNDS ROBBER IN SALOON.

Proprietor Fires Twice at Intruder, Who Is Sought in Railroad Yards by the Police.

Police of the West North avenue station early today surrounded the railroad yards in the vicinity of Grand and Monticello avenues, where a wounded robber is believed to be in hiding. The man was shot twice by August Bodiski, 1960 Grand avenue, as he was robbing his saloon. The thief escaped through a window. Policeman Walsh of the West North avenue station heard the shots. He pursued the thief to the St. Paul railroad yards.

B. R. Davis, 55 years old, 631 West Sixty-sixth street, a real estate dealer, was saved from robbers late in the night at Randolph and Dearborn streets by W. M. Pope, a porter in a barber shop at 95 Lake street. Pope was walking in Randolph street when he saw a man searching the pockets in Davis' clothing. He went to Davis' aid. In the scuffle which followed between Pope and the robber Davis was knocked down and injured. The robber escaped.

Mrs. Lillie Hermann, 24 Sangamon street, reported to the Desplaines street station that she had been beaten and robbed in her home by a stranger.

MYSTERY IN GIRL'S SUICIDE.

Thelma Debaugh, Who Ended Her Life with Poison, Believed to Have Belonged to a Wealthy Family.

Despondent because of a love affair and financially embarrassed, Thelma Debaugh, 21 years old, swallowed poison on Thursday in a resort at 2131 Dearborn street and died yesterday in Wesley hospital. Physicians at the hospital learned that her home was in Kentucky and efforts are being made to locate her relatives, who are said to be wealthy.

"I am reaching out for the light beyond," she exclaimed to one of her companions who found her almost unconscious and still grasping a small vial. "You will never learn my identity."

Despite the efforts of the hospital physicians the young woman died in agony.

ANSON IS COAXED TO DO HIS DUTY.

City Clerk Reluctantly Signs Charges Against Three Shirking Deputies.

ACTS ON LAWYER'S ADVICE

Hearing of Accused Men Before Civil Service Board Is Set for May 31.

City Clerk Anson allowed himself to be coaxed and persuaded yesterday into doing what everybody but himself has thought for a week was his duty. Reluctantly, and with much laborious physical effort, he signed the charges against the three clerks in his office who absented themselves from work without leave, but who remained on the pay roll.

As soon as he had done so the charges were sent to the civil service commission, and the hearing was set for May 31. The clerks whose explanations will be forthcoming then are: John W. Mahoney, in charge of dog licenses; Edward O'Donnell, in charge of saloon licenses, and H. P. F. Fleming, general license clerk.

The charge is that the clerks were absent from their work without leave—Mahoney for fifty days in the first four months of the year, O'Donnell thirty-nine in the same period, and Fleming eighteen in the first three, he not having been absent in April.

Listens to Lawyer's Advice.

Mr. Anson came to a decision to sign the charges after he had been the recipient of considerable legal advice. Assistant Corporation Counsel Maclay Hoyne informed him, in an opinion, that no one but he could sign the charges, asserting that no outsider could bring charges against civil service employes. Mr. Hoyne added that it was Anson's duty either to suspend the men or file charges against them, if there were reasons to believe them guilty of infractions of rules.

Attorney Finn of the civil service commission added to the legal information in the case by advising both the civil service commissioners and the city clerk that a mandamus to compel the city official to sign the charges could be secured.

At 4 o'clock three sets of charges were laid before Mr. Anson by Mr. Finn with the remark:

"Here are the charges. You can do what you like about them. Please let the commission know your decision as soon as you reach one."

Signs the Charges at Last.

"I'll take a couple of days to think about it," said the city clerk, and the commission, on hearing this, decided to give him until this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Anson, however, surprised himself by reaching a decision within an hour and sent the signed charges up to the commission.

"I am acting in accordance with the opinion given me by the corporation counsel," he explained. "I guess the boys have had all the chance they had coming, and maybe a little more. I never have excused them. I have been after them ever since I got in office. Every effort was made to bring them to time without causing them to lose their jobs. I talked to them until I was black in the face."

Some of the aldermen may be witnesses against the clerks, having been observers of the party of clerks in West Baden when the aldermanic nonpartisan organization committee was framing the committee slate at that place.

Effort to Save City Hall.

The city council will be asked for $15,000 to take the necessary precautions to prevent further damage to the city hall because of the county building excavation. The city hall committee so decided yesterday after receiving reports from City Engineer John Ericson and from George W. Jackson.

"It is my opinion," Mr. Ericson reported, "that irrespective of precautions, there will be further settlement, more or less serious, of the city hall building."

He recommended that in case the county building subbasement be constructed, heavy iron rods be run through the city hall building as near the base as possible, and also at the third or fourth floor.

City statistics for 1905 issued yesterday show that there were 68,957 arrests last year as against 66,344 in 1904. Twenty-eight women were arrested charged with burglary.

DEMAND TO RESIGN FOLLOWS FRAUD CHARGE IN SOCIETY.

Catholic Knights and Ladies Divided by Accusations, and Attorney Frederick J. Crowley Is Blamed.

As a result of fraud charges made against officers of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of American, a demand will be made upon Attorney Frederick J. Crowley to show cause why he should be permitted to remain a member of the order. This declaration was made yesterday by Lawrence E. Henley, president of St. Mary's chapter of the order, which is declared to have been divided by an internal dissension. President Henley characterized charges of fraud in connection with the insuring of members of the order and also the charges made against Mrs. Mary Lynch, supreme trustee, as the outgrowth of a political and factional row in St. Mary's chapter. He charged Mr. Crowley with responsibility for the accusations and declared he and four members of his "clique" would be called upon to explain their actions.

President Henley and Henry F. Hayes, supreme secretary of the order, both denied there had been any irregularities in the conduct of the insurance business of the society and also declared all charges of fraud to be unfounded.

The general charge that $2,000 of the insurance funds of the St. Mary local branch were misappropriated and that a "startling condition" of affairs exists in the order followed specific charges made against Mrs. Mary Lynch, 240 Loomis street, a supreme trustee of the society. Mrs. Lynch was charged with permitting funds of the society to be misused and also with shoplifting.

REFUSES TO RECEIVE BAD BOY.

Teacher Martin G. Henchy of Raster School Declines to Obey Order of Education Board Committee.

Martin G. Henchy, a teacher in the Raster school, refused yesterday to take back a bad boy into his room, in spite of the threat made by a committee of the school board to discharge him from the service.

Principal David L. Murray reported to the school management committee a week ago that he had sent a bad boy to Henchy's room and the teacher had refused to receive him. A subcommittee, after hearing both sides of the controversy instructed Teacher Henchy to receive the bad boy, but he refused.

The committee then gave him until Friday to obey its instructions, and if he still refuses he will be placed on trial charged with insubordination. The committee refused to tell the lad's name.

BERKMAN DUE HERE TOMORROW

Anarchist Will Come to Chicago from Detroit, Accompanied by Emma Goldman.

Alexander Berkman, the Pittsburg anarchist, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning to visit local workers for "the cause." He will be accompanied by Emma Goldman. The two leaders in anarchy now are in Detroit, and will come directly here. Berkman sent word to acquaintances in Chicago yesterday that he would visit them this week. He said he would arrive in the city some time Wednesday morning. Where he will stay while in Chicago is not known except by a few friends, who are keeping the anarchist's plans secret.

Hunts New Land in Frozen North.

ERNEST DE KOVEN LEFFINGWELL

Ernest D. Leffingwell of the University of Chicago and his companion, Capt. Mikkelsen, started on their trip to the far north yesterday in search of a possible seventh continent and for the purpose of studying the geological conditions of the frozen lands.

University professors expect much from this unofficial expedition to the arctic seas. Both men have figured in dashes for the pole, but they believe what they will find will be of greater benefit to science even than the discovery of the pole. The expedition will sail north from Vancouver. Whalers blown out of their course have reported a body of land there, and the explorers believe their chances of finding it are good.

Mr. Leffingwell will pay particular attention to the geology of the country. He expects to discover a number of islands and possibly a continent.

PLAN A BANK FOR ACTORS.

THEATER SYNDICATE TO OPEN NOVEL INSTITUTION HERE.

Kohl & Castle, Who Are Participants in New $50,000,000 Theatrical Merger, Will Arrange Details of the Financial Project in New York—Railway and Legal Departments Will Be Features Planned for Amusement Enterprises.

Chicago is to have a new bank. The institution will be styled the Theatrical National bank, will begin operations next month, will have a paid up capital of $1,000,000, and will be a distinct novelty in financial circles. Business of all persons of good standing in the theatrical profession will be sought rather than regarded as undesirable.

Sixty Clerks Already Employed.

Such was the information divulged last night by Charles E. Kohl and Martin Beck, who, with other heads of the Western Vaudeville Managers' association, will leave today for New York to perfect the details of the $50,000,000 theatrical merger recently consummated in this city when Klaw & Erlanger and B. F. Keith visited Chicago.

Already a staff of sixty clerks has been employed in preparing for the institution, the headquarters of which will be in the Majestic Theater building.

Three Departments Planned.

The legal department, under the supervision of Levy Mayer and A. B. Jenks, will be available for the service of theatrical men and women. The financial department will embrace the bank and all the functions such an institution may include. Department 3 will be devoted to the railroad interests of the merger and will handle the transportation for the different companies connected with it. A well known Chicago general passenger agent will be in charge.

Chicago is much in evidence as the hub, spoke, and tire of the wheel of theatrical interests and the promoters of the merger have carefully considered Chicago's geographical, financial, and pushing qualities in putting the venture into operation.

SCHOOL "FRATS" ATTACKED IN INJUNCTION SUIT ANSWER.

Secret Societies Are Declared by Board of Education to Foster Cliques and to Lower Scholarship.

High school fraternities in Chicago were scored by the board of education yesterday afternoon in an answer filed to injunction proceedings brought by parents of five pupils of the Hyde Park High school last week.

The answer, in enumerating the weak points in fraternities, says:

"The existence of fraternities and Greek letter societies among pupils of the high schools is causing a retrogression in the conduct and the scholarship of the high schools; the existence of the societies creates cliques and factions, and destroys the unity and democracy of the school life.

"It has become necessary for the preservation of the high standard of conduct and scholarship which has existed in the Chicago public high schools to enact some rule for the government of pupils who are members of the secret societies. The opinion of educators in the Chicago public schools is unanimous in deeming the existence of fraternities and Greek letter societies as injurious to the public schools.

"The scholarship of members of these fraternities is lower than the scholarship of pupils outside the fraternities," the answer declares.

LITTLE BOYS COLD; BURN SHED.

Kyle Brown and "Dodo" Iler, Aged 4, Start Fire at 202 North Clark Street.

Feeling chilly from the changes in the atmosphere, two 4 year olds yesterday afternoon lighted some newspapers in the yard in the rear of 202 North Clark street and set fire to an old shed which threatened for a time to spread to adjoining buildings. The fire was extinguished with a nominal damage.

The boys are Kyle Brown and "Dodo" Iler, who live in flats in the building. When the flames shot upward the youngsters, becoming frightened, hid under the rear steps, and remained there during the fire, though it was warm enough to scorch the wood. They were finally found by their frantic mothers. The boys said they were cold and wanted to get warm.

Between noon and 6 p. m. firemen were summoned to extinguish flames in ten buildings in different parts of the city. In no instance were the fires of much consequence.

NEW PHONE CO. TO FIGHT FOR GRANT.

Manufacturers Will Demand Chicago Franchise in Opposition to Monopoly.

LOWER RATES PROMISED.

Statistics Prove Charges Here Are Too High; City to Share in Profits.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday became an active competitor with the Chicago Telephone company for an ordinance enabling it to operate a telephone system in Chicago, applying for a charter under the laws of Illinois for the "Manufacturers' Telephone company."

Application for the charter was made through a committee from the Manufacturers' association, composed of La Verne W. Noyes, president of the Aermotor company; John E. Wilder of Wilder & Co.; C. H. Smith, president of the Western Wheeled Scraper company; Gustav Hessert Jr., secretary and treasurer of the National Brewing company; and John M. Glenn, secretary of the Manufacturers' association.

At the same time the committee announced that in a few days the ordinance which the association would present to the mayor and council for passage would be ready. A schedule of reduced rates is being prepared.

Get Reports from Leading Cities.

Six weeks ago Mayor Dunne wrote municipal authorities of leading cities of the world, asking that aid be given the Manufacturers' association in securing data with reference to telephone companies. The Manufacturers' association also put experts at work to examine into the cost of instituting and maintaining a complete telephone system.

Reports are in the hands of the association's committee from nearly all these cities. The reports show practically a unanimity in condemning measured rate service, unless there is a maximum toll price within which measured rates are limited.

Estimates made for the manufacturers by experts place the cost of replacing the Chicago Telephone company at less than $10,000,000, compared with the $14,000,000 which the company reports it has invested.

City to Share in Profits.

The new company, according to the committee, proposes to permit the city to participate in its profits, and it limits its capitalization to the cost of investment. It further proposes that, in order that the city may be safeguarded against ignorance as to the company's receipts, the city shall have representation on the board of directors.

As for subscribers, the company plans that they shall be given measured service at their option, with the provision that the total charge of measured service shall not exceed the charge for unlimited service. In this way, if the total charge of measured service for resident phones exceeds the unlimited rate the latter will govern.

It is claimed that, instead of the $175 a year the Chicago Telephone company charged for unlimited service before the Manufacturers' association secured its injunction, the charge by the new company for business telephones would be less than $100 a year. One member of the committee said the rates prepared for the new company would easily average 25 to 33 per cent less than those proposed by the Chicago Telephone company if its franchise is renewed.

Lose Out of Town Orders.

A radical proposition which the new company will submit to the city is that all long distance telephone companies, whether belonging to the Bell company or independent concerns, shall be given equal privileges in connecting with and giving service over the lines of the new company.

At present, members of the committee say, the out of town merchants telephone their orders to St. Louis and other cities where independent companies have gained an entrance through independent local companies. Also, it is claimed, the long distance toll charges of the Bell company are 33 per cent higher than those of independent companies.

Attorney Levy Mayer declined to discuss the ordinance to be submitted to the city by the Manufacturers' association, beside saying it would be completed in a few days and that its terms must be submitted first to the mayor and the association's board of directors.

Food Cure

NATURE'S WAY

See Diet List Below.

HEALTH REGAINED VIA FOOD.

A man may try all sorts of drugs to help him to get well, but, after all, the "food cure" is the method intended by Nature.

Anyone can prove the efficacy of the food cure by making use of the following breakfast each morning for fifteen or twenty days:

A dish containing not more than four heaping teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts food, enough good, rich cream to go with it, some raw or cooked fruit, not more than two slices of entire wheat bread, and not more than one cup of Postum Food Coffee, to be sipped, not drank hurriedly. Let this suffice for the breakfast.

Let one meal in the day consist of an abundance of good meat, potato, and one other vegetable.

This method will quickly prove the value of the selection of the right kind of food to rebuild the body and replace the lost tissue which is destroyed every day and must be made up, or disease of some sort enters in. This is an age of specialists, and the above suggestions are given by a specialist in food values, dietetics and hygiene.

ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE TRIBUNE BRING RESULTS.

WARMLY DEFENDS SALVATION ARMY.

HEAR HEARST'S PETITION

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, May 21.

Commander Miss Eva Booth of the Salvation army today denied the statement made recently by Edwin D. Solenberger, general manager of the Associated Charities, that "the Salvation army relief work, as carried on through its homes, lodging houses, and other agencies, is poorly organized and poorly administered, and that the so-called work of the army is largely subservient to financial interest."

Miss Booth Denies Solenberger's Charges.

"Our social officers are specially trained and instructed for this particular branch," said Miss Booth. "The work is thoroughly organized and carefully administered, and our rescue homes are a model to the world.

"The charge that we do nothing to improve the morals of the men is too absurd a declaration to be considered.

"It is absolutely untrue that Gen. Booth holds all property and funds of the Salvation army in trust in America. The Salvation army property accumulated in various countries is held under the laws of the countries in indissoluble trust for such purposes; and no one, either leader or worker, could pervert any such property to their personal ends, or devise and bequeath it to others."

In conclusion Miss Booth said Mr. Solenberger recently wrote a letter indorsing the work of the Salvation army.

The steamer Nieuw Amsterdam, which arrived today from Rotterdam and Boulogne, made a new record for speed on the route of the Holland-America line. The time of passage from Boulogne to Sandy Hook lightship was eight days eight hours and thirty minutes. The total distance was 3,340 miles. The ship maintained an average speed of 16.2 knots.

Attorney General Mayer in Albany today gave a hearing on the application of William R. Hearst for permission to commence quo warranto proceedings to test the title of George B. McClellan to the office of mayor of New York City.

Hears Hearst's Plea for Vote Recount.

Clarence J. Shearn, attorney for Mr. Hearst, said Mr. Hearst asked for the opportunity for a recount because he believed that he had received the largest number of ballots, because ballots had not been truthfully counted; because intimidation and violence had prevented a full expression of the elective franchise and because he had been the object of conspiracy on the part of certain election officials.

Corporation Counsel Butts contended that Mr. Hearst had failed to present a prima facie case in behalf of his application.

Attorney General Mayer reserved his decision.

O. P. Austin, chief of the bureau of statistics, department of commerce and labor, tonight made an address before the Manufacturers' association in which he explained the causes which hinder the manufacturers of this country from invading the markets of the orient and proposed some remedies for the faults.

Explains Faults in Trade with the Orient.

Mr. Austin stated that, while this country has every facility for competing with European manufacturers, it supplies less than 1 per cent of the billion dollars' worth of merchandise imported to the tropical orient, against 66 per cent for the Europeans, and only 17 per cent in Japan and 20 in the Philippines.

The chief cause of the great difference in the exports to the tropical orient, he said, was that the European dealers sent agents to the country and found the needs of the natives and that they have long ago given up the hope of forcing products fit for use in temperate zones into those countries as the Americans continue to do.

Mr. Austin also advised that, instead of exporting raw goods to England and other countries for manufacture, the nation turn more to making the material into a finished state, thus increasing the profits on labor and of those engaged in manufacturing and exporting.

Forty years at hard labor in Sing Sing was the sentence pronounced on William Metalski, the "Masonic" burglar, by Judge Crane this morning. Metalski, who is 27 years old, pleaded guilty to indictments charging him with burglary in the first degree and grand larceny in the first degree and acknowledged that he has been robbing Brooklynites for over a year.

Burglar Given Forty Year Sentence.

When Metalski was arraigned for sentence his counsel pleaded for clemency and said his client had saved the county the expense of a trial. He also pleaded on behalf of the prisoner's young wife, Essie, who, he said, is about to become a mother.

"There are other mothers to be considered," said Judge Crane. "He had no consideration for mothers when he entered their homes in the dead of night, armed with a revolver, to steal their goods." Then he pronounced the sentence.

CHILD FALLS 52 FEET AND LIVES

Two Year Old Girl Is Injured When Porch Support Gives Way, but Will Recover.

Albertina Vitak, the 2 year old daughter of Louis Vitak, 630 North Clark street, fell from the porch in the rear of the fourth floor of 626 North Clark street yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, a distance of fifty-two feet, and late last night was declared to have every chance of recovery. The case is in charge of Dr. Carl Wagner, La Salle and North avenues.

Yesterday afternoon the child, with her dolls, was playing on the porch in the rear of the flat occupied by her parents. She wandered to the porch at 626 North Clark street. A support against which she was leaning gave way and the child was precipitated to the ground.

Fred Pfalsgraf, a janitor, picked up the child, then unconscious. An examination failed to reveal any fractures and the only fear is from internal injuries.

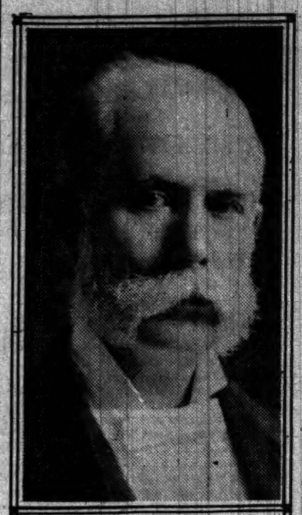
Death Comes to Chicago Physician.



DR. EDWIN F. RUSH

Dr. Edwin Forrest Rush, for twenty-eight years a practitioner in Chicago, died yesterday morning at his home 287 Ontario street. Dr. Rush, was 54 years old. He was born in Columbus, O., and came to this city for his medical education, receiving his doctor's degree in 1878. For many years he was well known as an authority on skin diseases and was later medical examiner of the National Union, Press council. He is survived by a widow and a 21 year old son. Dr. Rush was a great-great-grandson of Benjamin Rush, signer of the declaration of Independence, after whom Rush Medical college was named.

STUDENT KISSES WAITRESS; COMPLAINANT GIVEN DUCKING

Andover Academy Boys Threaten to Bolt in Body if Any Are Expelled for Punishment of Landlord.

Andover, Mass., May 21.—[Special.]—Complaint that Travers Brown, a New York student, had kissed Bessie Huntley, a waitress, and the subsequent expulsion of Brown have led to other complications. The 450 students, determined to avenge Brown, ducked Landlord Stewart of the hotel, who made complaint against Brown, and then threatened to leave school in a body if any more were expelled for throwing Stewart in a pond.

The attitude of the students, it is said, has held up, temporarily at least, the suspension of four of their number, but members of the faculty declare that if the ringleaders are found they will be expelled.

After the baseball game with Princeton on Friday the boys, headed by a brass band, marched to the inn and called out Stewart. He did not learn—until it was too late to make his escape—that he had been charged with reporting Brown's conduct to the academy faculty and that they proposed to punish him.

According to Principal Stearns, only half a dozen boys knew of the ducking scheme.

ARMED GUARD TO PROTECT ILLINOIS MINE FROM STRIKERS

Sheriff Hoke and Deputies of Livingston County at Cardiff to Prevent Burning of Top Works.

Springfield, Ill., May 21.—[Special.]—Armed with rifles, Sheriff C. H. Hoke and his deputies of Livingston county, are standing guard over the property of the Cardiff Coal company at Cardiff, to prevent striking miners from burning the top works.

When Sheriff Hoke was summoned to Cardiff he was told by the owners of the mine that an effort had been made by strikers to burn the upper works. The trouble with the miners is declared to be due to the employment of nonunion miners to keep the pumps and fans running.

The situation is regarded by Sheriff Hoke as extremely serious and a call for militia is not improbable. The Cardiff Coal company is a Chicago concern and is said to be the first company to try to replace strikers with nonunion men.

QUAKE IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS.

Clay County Towns Shaken and Chimneys Wrecked, but Damage Is Not Serious.

St. Louis, Mo., May 21.—[Special.]—Southern Illinois felt an earthquake shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon. The shock was from west to east, lasting two seconds. In some places the people ran from their houses into the street. At Flora water mains burst and a portion of the town was flooded. Chimneys fell at Clay City, but otherwise there was no damage. The greatest alarm was at Louisville, where houses rocked and glassware and bric-a-brac fell. Clay City, Flora, and Louisville are in Clay county, the heart of the soft coal district.

LULL IN FIGHT FOR MILLIONS.

Illness Causes Postponement of Suit Over Fortune Left by Weightman, the Chemist.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 21.—The contest over the estate of William Weightman, the millionaire manufacturing chemist, came up today in the Orphans' court, but was postponed owing to the illness of Mrs. Walker. The principals in the case are Mrs. Jones-Wister and Mrs. Anna Weightman-Walker. The latter was the sole heir of Mr. Weightman, whose estate is estimated to be worth $60,000,000. It is charged that Mrs. Walker exerted undue influence over the testator, and that he was of unsound mind when the will was executed.

FIRE ENDANGERS 300 MINERS.

Trapper Boy Volunteers to Warn Men and Enters the Mine Through an Air Shaft.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 21.—Three hundred miners who were today rescued from the jeopardy they were placed in by a fire in the Hazel Kirke mine No. 1 of the Pittsburg and Westmoreland Coal company at Washington, fifteen miles east of this city, are tonight fighting the fire to prevent the destruction of the plant. A trapper boy who volunteered to go into the mine and warn the men, gained an entrance through a winding stairway in the air shaft.

PREACHER NOT HORSEWHIPPED

Report Affecting the Rev. C. C. McLean of Dixon, Ill., Is Declared Erroneous.

Franklin Grove, Ill., May 21.—[Special.]—The trial of Charles McBride of Dixon, Ill., charged with assaulting the Rev. C. C. McLean, pastor of the Methodist church of Dixon, which was held here, resulted in a verdict against the defendant. McBride was arrested for having struck the Rev. McLean a blow in the face with his fist on April 15. The report circulated at the time that the Rev. McLean had been horsewhipped was erroneous.

CARTER FACING TRIAL FOR HERESY

Presbyterian General Assembly May Take Action in Case of Accused.

BUSY ON CHURCH ISSUES.

Storm Brewing Over Proposed Resolution Against Use of Tobacco.

Des Moines, Ia., May 21.—[Special.]—The business of the Presbyterian general assembly was shoved along at a lively rate today. But the most delicate work was done outside, and all sorts of efforts were made to compromise on subjects likely to bring on a fight in the open assembly.

The "Carter sitter," referred to exclusively in THE TRIBUNE, was quietly passed into the hands of the committee on bills and overtures, which will prevent an open discussion in the assembly. The presbytery of Nassau will be directed to try Carter for heresy.

The "quack medicine overture" was handled by the committee on bills and overtures, which recommended no action, as the church papers are private enterprises.

Earnest work has been in progress all day to frame a compromise paper on the book for common worship, so as to sidetrack the stated debate. The Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke has been gaining friends rapidly by his genial manners and fascinating conversation, the charm of which the opposition confessedly fears.

New Leader on Scene.

A leader for the opposition was recruited today in the Rev. Dr. Robert Johnson, pastor of the American Presbyterian church in Montreal, and now wanted for the pastorate of the "House of Hope" Presbyterian church of St. Paul. Dr. Johnson is the tallest man in the assembly and one of its greatest orators.

The assembly this afternoon determined upon one of the most important church movements undertaken by it in many years. It voted unanimously to begin at once the organization of a men's society under the name of "Presbyterian Brotherhood," whose purpose shall be to bring the men of Presbyterian churches more closely into sympathy with the church and to bring about "Spiritual development, fraternal relations, denominational fealty, the strengthening of fellowship, and the engagement in works of Christian usefulness."

The report of the committee on Sabbath observance recommended the adoption of resolutions urging the church to discourage holding Sunday funerals, reiterating disapproval of all secular uses of the day, all games and sports, all traveling for pleasure and all excursions, and urging employers to recognize the need of the laboring man for his weekly rest day; urging all families not to buy anything on the Sabbath, and to give the preference to shops which close on the Lord's day; condemning Sunday newspapers; recommending that each pastor preach a sermon in April next on the subject of the Sabbath, and that an offering be made for the work of the American Sabbath union.

Agitation Against Tobacco.

Another storm is brewing over the proposed passage of a resolution against the use of tobacco. An effort will be made to slide it through in the report of the standing committee on temperance. Such a resolution has been carried in two previous assemblies, but an unusually large number of the commissioners in the assembly are smokers, including the majority of the 100 old soldiers, nearly all the ex-moderators, and most of the prominent members of the assembly. The chairman of the standing committee will not consent to the introduction of the proposed resolution, but it will be sprung from the floor of the house.

Union Issue More Bitter.

Decatur, Ill., May 21.—Judge Johns' decision in the Cumberland Presbyterian injunction suit will not be handed down before Thursday. This announcement, made at the conclusion of the argument, caused great disappointment to both parties to the suit. Dixon C. Williams, a business man and lay evangelist of Chicago, preached a sermon to the assembly in which he rebuked both sides for manifesting a wrong spirit on the question in controversy. The anti-unionists have made it known that if they fail to secure the injunction they will remain after the assembly adjourns and organize a new assembly, which, they say, will be the real Cumberland Presbyterian assembly. It is said that many of their own number will not follow them in this program.

U. S. VICE CONSUL KILLED.

W. H. STUART VICTIM OF ASSASSIN AT BATUM, RUSSIA.

British Subject Who Served as American Official at Great Black Sea Oil Port Ambushed and Shot by Unknown Enemies While Returning from His Country Home—Had Lived Many Years in Czar's Domains.

BATUM, May 21.—W. H. Stuart, the American vice consul, was shot and killed at his country place last night. The assassins escaped, and there is no clew to their identity.

Mr. Stuart was a British subject and one of the largest ship brokers and exporters of Batum.

Mr. Stuart, having dined at the house of a friend, was returning to his country place at Manziadjani, five miles from Batum, when he was fired on twice from a clump of trees. He was conveyed to a military barracks in the vicinity, where he expired two hours later. He had spent the greater part of his life in Russia.

Expect Russia to Act.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—It is not doubted that the Russian government will make every effort to capture the assassins and mete out full punishment to them, and it is consequently felt to be well to allow them to proceed in that direction without further pressure.

Attack on Russian Count.

KALISZ, Russian Poland, May 21.—A second attempt on the life of Count Keller, a colonel of dragoons and nephew of Lieut. Gen. Count Keller, who was killed July 29, 1904, during the war with Japan, was made today by a Jewish revolutionist, who threw a bomb at the colonel while he was riding in a suburb.

Col. Keller, though receiving more than thirty wounds from splinters of the bomb, was saved from instant death by the too good aim of his assailant, the bomb exploding directly beneath the body of Col. Keller's horse, which received the major portion of the charge. The wounded man may recover. The would-be assassin was caught.

Peasant Who Aided Cossacks Killed.

LIBAU, May 21.—In the district of Tadlakensk today a peasant and his wife were killed and their 6 year old son was wounded and their house set on fire by a band of revolutionists. The crime was an act of vengeance because the peasant had led a Cossack patrol.

KAISER GIVES PRIVATE A SCARE.

Strolls on Firing Line, Sees Rifle Sights Are Not Correctly Adjusted, and Calls Man Down.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, May 21.—The kaiser, with his Napoleonic love of acquainting himself with how military details are observed by the army, strolled on to the firing line during the recent field exercises at Metz and lay behind the soldiers to watch whether they were complying with the regulations. He noticed a man firing without adjusting the sights of his rifle correctly. The delinquent was suddenly startled to hear a voice close to his ear saying: "You fellow, that will cost you three days' imprisonment if anybody else sees you." The man turned and was astounded to see the emperor, who was satisfied with frightening him and did not order any further punishment.

DEATH FOR GEN. STOESSEL?

Russian Court Martial Reported to Have Sentenced Defender of Port Arthur.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—It is rumored that the court martial which has been investigating the surrender of Port Arthur and the battle of the Sea of Japan, has condemned to death Lieut. Gen. Stoessel, who commanded the Russian forces at Port Arthur, and Rear Admiral Nebogatoff, who commanded one of Admiral Rojestvensky's squadrons and who surrendered during the naval battle to the Japanese.

POPE ALLOWED TO LEAVE BED.

General Condition Improved, but Advised by Physician Not to Hold Audiences Till End of Week.

ROME, May 21.—Dr. Lapponi, when he visited the pope today, found that the gouty pain in his knee had almost disappeared and that his general condition had improved. Although his temperature was again slightly above normal, the doctor allowed the pope to get up for a few hours, but advised him not to resume his audiences until the end of the week, and even then only if he continues to make satisfactory progress.

DOUMA OVERLOOKS SNUB FROM CZAR.

Hotheads in Russian Parliament Restrained by the Cooler Members.

LAND PROBLEM TAKEN UP.

House Debates Resolution Declaring Soil Belongs to the Men Who Till It.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—The threatened storm over the czar's refusal to receive the delegation from the lower house of parliament appointed to present to him its reply to the speech from the throne has been averted.

The moderate leaders of the constitutional democrats after laboring with the hotheads until the early morning hours succeeded in convincing them that it would be a fatal blunder to precipitate a conflict upon a false issue, and a resolution was prepared pointing out that the importance of the address consisted in its contents and not in the form in which it is transmitted to the emperor.

Some of the constitutional democrats frankly expressed the opinion that the house itself committed an error in appointing the deputation when the law specifically provided that communications from the house should go through the president.

Land Question Taken Up.

The resolution of Novgorodseff, urging the necessity for overlooking minor incidents and getting to work on the agrarian question, was unanimously adopted, after which the house proceeded with the agrarian debate.

The project adopted by the convention of the constitutional democrats, laying down the general principle that the land belonged to those who tilled it, was presented.

It should be stated the agrarian measure is not a bill for a law. It is only a memorandum, signed by thirty or forty members, propounding a basis for an agrarian law to be elaborated in committee. It provides for the partial appropriation at a fair price of certain private properties, which, with the state, crown, monasterial, and ecclesiastical lands, will be converted into a state reserve, from which the peasants will be able to obtain allotments of long leases under the supervision of local committees. Confiscation pure and simple is not intended. Several categories of private lands are expressly excepted, the principle mainly being applicable to large holdings that are not cultivated by their owners.

First Ministerial Reply.

Later in the day notice was given of an interpellation to the minister of the interior regarding the scandal of the police inciting violence. This produced the first ministerial utterance before the representatives of the nation. M. von Schwanebach, controller of the empire, who was the solitary occupant of the ministerial bench, explained that the minister of the interior had been obliged to quit the house, but he announced on his behalf that the required information would be given the douma within thirty days, that being the time allowed by the revised statutes for the purpose. He added that he himself could not confirm nor deny the charges against the police.

ILLINOIS OFFICES PUT ON A SLATE.

Deneen's Envoys Confer with Cullom, Hopkins, and Lorimer in Washington.

CHICAGO WILL GET TWO.

Postmaster Busse Finds All the Room He Needs in Federal Building.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—It looks as if the Illinois appointments were to be determined upon at last. Postmaster Busse, State Senator Campbell, and Internal Revenue Collector Smith of Springfield came to Washington today and saw Senator Cullom and Senator Hopkins. During the day Senator Hopkins conferred with Representatives Lorimer and Snapp.

Ask any of these men if the question of federal appointments at Chicago is under consideration and the answer will be, "No, not yet." The denial, of course, is diplomatic. It can be said on the best of authority, however, that earnest efforts are being made to fix up a slate and that the next few days ought to see the recommendations of the two senators in the hands of the president.

The result is being reached by a process of elimination. Lorimer has agreed to abandon "Billy" Cooke for a federal job. He still insists upon recognition, however, and will get it.

Chicago on the Slate.

Chicago has won her contention for representation on the slate. Two men from the city are to be designated for the offices of appraiser and subtreasurer. Who they will be is now a subject for negotiation. The Deneen interests are being represented by Busse and Campbell, who were sent to Washington by Gov. Deneen to consult with Senators Cullom and Hopkins, but it is known positively that the senior senator and Gov. Deneen are in perfect accord, and it is argued from this that Senator Cullom will be guided to a considerable extent by Gov. Deneen's recommendations. Busse and Campbell know what Deneen wants and what he does not want, and they are acting as loyal agents of their chief.

To a considerable extent the arrangement of the slate depends upon the recommendations of the Lorimer faction with regard to the appraisership and the subtreasurership, a name which has been tentatively suggested as a successor to Mr. Williams in the latter office is that of Thomas O'Shaughnessy of the west side, who was a candidate several years ago for city treasurer. All Senator Cullom is anxious about is to secure men who are of good character and qualifications and who will be acceptable to the city and to the state.

It is generally conceded that Marshal John Ames will be promoted to the collectorship of customs, and Appraiser Luman T. Hoy to the marshalship, and that ex-State Senator Charles Bent will be appointed pension agent. Internal Revenue Collector Hertz will not be disturbed.

Satisfactory to Cullom.

All these appointments are satisfactory to Senator Cullom, and Senator Hopkins is understood to approve them, provided an appraiser and a subtreasurer be named from among the men he has in mind. It is the purpose of Senator Cullom to make inquiries concerning the qualifications and standing of the candidates who may be proposed. He wants first class men, and in this he is complying with the expressed views of President Roosevelt.

It was said at the White house today that the president wants the appointments made before congress adjourns in order that the nominations may be transmitted to the senate and confirmed. It was said further that he had been assured that the recommendations of the Illinois senators would be received in ample time.

Room in the Postoffice.

The ostensible reason for the visit here of Postmaster Busse was to discuss further with the treasury and postoffice departments the plan to secure additional space for the postoffice. Mr. Busse saw representatives of the two departments today and later expressed satisfaction with the decisions they had made.

Representative Madden returned yesterday from Chicago, where in company with Postmaster Busse he had inspected the federal building. He said today the inspection convinced him that there was ample space to provide for the postal and all other federal business transacted in Chicago. There were several rooms now occupied by one or two persons only, each of which could accommodate a hundred at least. Representative Madden satisfied himself that the space could be arranged so as to take care of the force needed to handle the mail of the present day and any increase that will occur during the next ten years.

To make the changes not more than $38,000 will have to be expended. The urgent deficiency bill, which recently passed congress, appropriated $138,000 for this purpose. Mr. Madden had obtained also the consent of the house leaders to an amendment to the sundry civil bill appropriating $85,000 for decorating the building. In view of the small cost of the changes it has been decided to insert a provision in the sundry civil bill authorizing the expenditure of the balance from the appropriation already made, which will amount to $100,000, for the work of decoration. The government will thus save $85,000 merely by a rearrangement of space.

Saving the Drainage Canal.

It was said this afternoon the sole object of the conference between Senator Hopkins and Representatives Lorimer and Snapp was to determine upon the phraseology of the provision regarding the Chicago drainage canal to be inserted in the bill for the preservation of the Niagara falls. The committee on rivers and harbors of the house held a meeting this morning at which nine amendments were introduced to the bill, all relating to the drainage canal. The amendments were offered by Representatives Lorimer, Alexander, Jones, Burgess, and Humphreys. Most of them were based upon the principle that water taken from the lakes for sanitary or domestic purposes should not be limited or be a subject of regulation. Representative Lorimer is insisting, in case a limit be inserted in the bill, it shall not be less than 14,000 cubic feet per second.

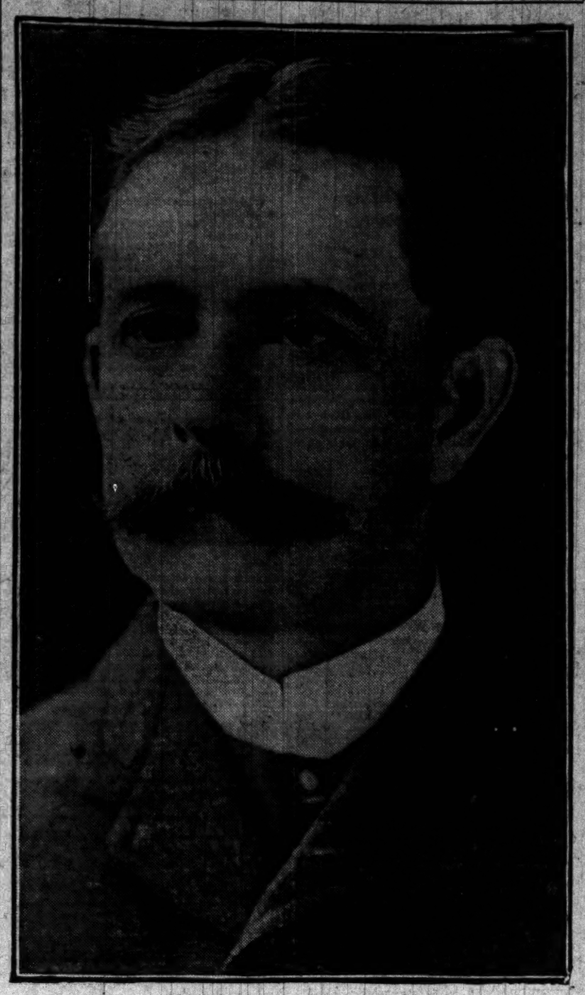
The committee, apparently, is unanimous in the view that the Chicago drainage canal ought not to be a subject for diplomatic negotiations between the United States and Great Britain. It is the intention of this and the Canadian government to negotiate a treaty regarding the preservation of Niagara falls as soon as laws are enacted in the two countries on the subject.

Lorimer Keeping Watch.

The committee on rivers and harbors will hold another meeting tomorrow, at which it is expected a vote will be taken. Mr. Lorimer wanted to be sure the words "sanitary" and "domestic" were broad enough to permit Chicago to get as much water as might be needed for the drainage canal. There always is danger that a false interpretation will be made of a law unless it is clear in every provision, and Mr. Lorimer is anxious that the language of the Niagara falls bill shall be drawn in such a way as to leave no doubt as to the intent of congress.

But while the relation of the Chicago drainage canal to the Niagara falls bill was discussed by Senator Hopkins and Messrs. Lorimer and Snapp, those three men knew of the presence here of Messrs. Busse, Campbell, and Smith, and they would have been more than human had they not referred to the reason of their visit. The part Smith is playing in the negotiations is not quite clear. He is a close friend of Senator Cullom, and presumably he is acting in his interest. But Busse and Campbell also are Cullom's friends at this juncture and are supporting heartily his candidacy for reelection. It is expected the conferences will continue tomorrow, when Busse, Campbell, and Smith will return home. If an agreement can be reached the nominations will be transmitted to the senate next week.

Senator Who Must Go to Prison Unless Court Grants a Rehearing.



J. Ralph Burton.

cant by his death, or by the expiration of his term of office, or by some direct action on the part of the senate in the exercise of its constitutional powers."

Senate May Ignore Sentence.

Under this view, which is extreme enough, of course, but which appears to be entirely logical, the individuality of the senate is absolutely preserved from all chance interference from without. That is to say, the courts cannot interfere to deprive a man of his seat in the United States senate. He may be convicted of murder and sentenced to the penitentiary, but he would remain a senator until expelled by the senate itself. If he were hanged he would hang as a senator and not as a private citizen, unless his expulsion came during his lifetime.

Under this decision it is manifest that if the senate for reasons of its own should take the ground that the courts had acted unfairly or unjustly it could keep a man on the rolls of the upper house of congress, pay him his full salary, make him an allowance for stationery, give him a clerk, put him on committees, and call his name at every roll call, and yet all the time he might be behind prison bars.

According to the view expressed by Justice Harlan, in which the court generally concurred, the right of the senate to act as judge of its own membership cannot be interfered with or lessened in any way either by the executive or judicial branch of the government. The house of representatives can impeach a senator, but it cannot try him. The courts can imprison a senator but they cannot deprive him of his togs.

Inglorious End of Burton.

It is an inglorious ending for one of the youngest members of the senate. When the Supreme court meets in October he will not quite have reached his forty-fifth birthday. Although registered from Kansas, he lived a long time in Indiana, where he was educated and admitted to the bar. He had an excellent trick of oratory all his own, and campaign committees all over the country were glad to put down a date for the brilliant political speaker from Abilene, Kas. It is pitiful to think he sacrificed such a career for a sum of money aggregating only half a year's salary.

It is believed Burton will resign from the senate after his rehearing is denied and before he is actually taken to the jail of Iron county, Mo., to which he was sentenced. If his resignation is not on file when the senate meets in December he will be expelled the first day, so as to prevent the unpleasant necessity of repeating his name at the roll call.

Poor Mitchell, the other convicted senator, was more fortunate. He died before his case finally was disposed of.

Eager to Get His Place.

Topeka, Kas., May 21.—Gov. Hoch, who, if Senator Burton's seat is declared vacant, will appoint a successor, was asked today:

"Will you appoint W. R. Stubbs?"

"I am not ready to answer that question," replied the governor.

"Will you appoint Congressman Charles Curtis?"

Gov. Hoch replied that he would give out nothing for publication today.

W. R. Stubbs is a railroad contractor of Lawrence, Kas., and until recently was chairman of the republican state central committee.

Among those spoken of by politicians in connection with the senatorship beside ex-State Chairman Stubbs and Congressman Curtis, are Judge J. W. Johnston of the state supreme court; J. L. Bristow of Salina, former fourth assistant postmaster general, and Congressman Philip P. Campbell of Pittsburg.

CANNON IN JOKING MOOD.

"UNCLE JOE'S" ABILITY TO COUNT A QUORUM AMUSES CONGRESS.

Declares as It Is Suspension Day the House Could Suspend the Rules and Pass an Elephant if It Wanted To—One Sweep of the Gavel Determines There Are 193 Members Present—"By Blocks of Ten."

Washington, D. C., May 21.—Speaker Cannon has kept the house in a jovial mood of late by his humorous dexterity in counting a quorum.

Today, when the senate bill incorporating the Archaeological Institute of America was pending, a motion was made to recommit the bill.

The speaker, however, overruled the request, stating that as this was suspension day, "if it were physically possible the house could suspend the rules and pass an elephant."

During the consideration of a house joint resolution amending pension laws, "no quorum," was noted by Mr. Williams.

Counts Up to 193.

"The chair will count," and Mr. Cannon waived his gavel over the house. A moment later he said:

"The chair has counted up to 193 and has not finished the count." There was loud applause.

Mr. Williams thereupon remarked (with a shrug of his shoulder), "there's no telling what he would have found if he had finished."

This sally brought forth renewed laughter.

During another interruption to the passage of a bill and when the point of no quorum was raised, the chair readily found a sufficient number present to do business.

Mr. Beall of Texas rose and asked by what arithmetical process the speaker reached the conclusion that a quorum was present.

In Blocks of Ten.

Instantly Mr. Cannon replied: "The chair counted in blocks of ten and there is a quorum present," which brought a hearty laugh from both democrats and republicans.

At 5:25 o'clock Mr. Williams appealed to Speaker Cannon to allow a motion to adjourn. The speaker had just recognized Mr. Steenerson of Minnesota to move to suspend the rules and pass a bill authorizing the construction of a dam across a river in his district. The speaker said it would require only a few minutes for consideration, and added:

"I have promised to recognize the gentleman to call up his dam bill." And the house laughed again.

The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill was passed by the senate today within three hours from its first reading. It carries appropriations aggregating $29,815,259.

DISAGREES ON THE RATE BILL.

House Commerce Committee Refuses to Adopt the Amendments Proposed by the Senate.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—The railroad rate bill was considered for three hours tonight by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce and the decision reached to recommend disagreement to all of the senate amendments and to send the measure to conference. The committee will not ask that instructions of any character be given to the house conferees.

BONAPARTE TALKS OF BRIBES.

Tells Civil Service Association at Baltimore How He Was Offered Compensation for Favor.

Baltimore, Md., May 21.—Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte tonight made an address before the Civil Service association, in which he described the dangers which beset the civil service reformer and told of an incident in which he was approached with an offer of a bribe, although the man who offered it may have failed to recognize that he had done so. Mr. Bonaparte said:

"Some time since, I received a letter in which the writer asked me to do something—just what I do not now remember—but, whatever his request may have been, he concluded by saying that, if I would thus oblige him, he would do all he could to secure me the vice presidency.

"This may or may not be considered an alluring bribe, but in moral it was a bribe, or the offer of one, no less certainly than if a certified check had been inclosed with the letter; although it is fair to add that the writer probably failed altogether to realize this fact.

BLISS EXPLAINS CAMPAIGN GIFTS?

Testifies Before Grand Jury Hearing Insurance Cases in New York.

INQUIRY WIDE IN SCOPE.

Jerome Expected to Dig Deep Into Mutual Affairs; Tip from Supply Department?

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the republican national campaign committee, was a witness today before the special grand jury that is investigating the insurance cases. Bliss was examined by District Attorney Jerome for about fifteen minutes. Jerome would not say what Bliss had been questioned about.

In view of the fact that Bliss' examination was so brief it is not thought that Jerome went into the general subject of campaign contributions by all of the insurance companies, but just questioned him in connection with some of the Mutual Life Insurance company transactions.

There was some surprise because Bliss was called today, it being generally understood that Jerome was not prepared to go into the subject of political contributions at this time.

Jerome Is Delving Deep.

That Jerome is going deep into the affairs of the Mutual was made evident when he called William C. Edwards, treasurer of the Guaranty Trust company, as a witness before the grand jury. Just as evidence of how much wider the scope of the grand jury's inquiry is as compared with the Armstrong committee's investigation, it is pointed out today that neither Bliss nor Edwards has been before the Armstrong committee. The committee had no power to get Edwards. Mr. Edwards was before the grand jury for about fifteen minutes, then he had a talk with Mr. Jerome.

The other witnesses examined were: Charles A. Preller and Charles A. Gretsinger, auditors of the Mutual. They were questioned on the supply department of the Mutual.

Mr. Jerome was asked tonight if he expected George B. Cortelyou, who is chairman of the republican national campaign committee, would be called as a witness, and he declined to answer. It is known that Mr. Jerome will not examine Mr. Bliss any more, unless some other thing develops of which he doesn't know now.

Throws New Light on Methods.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—Some additional inside light was thrown on insurance methods in New York today by Representative James A. Goulden of that state before the house commission on judiciary, considering the Ames bill for the regulation of insurance in the District of Columbia. Mr. Goulden is general agent of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company in New York.

"Why," he said, "it was a well conceded fact that to be a senator at Albany was worth anywhere from $50,000 to $100,000 a year, and that the money came largely from insurance companies. This is no secret. Every New York man knows it. I know it. I know it well."

Touching on the subject of campaign contribution, Mr. Goulden said that his company had been coerced into giving $10,000 to a national campaign committee in 1896. He did not say which campaign committee received the money, but remarked that the same thing was tried in 1900 and 1904, but without success.

FOREST ON FIRE IN WISCONSIN.

Town of Gillett, in Oconto County, Reported in Danger—2,000,000 Feet of Logs on Fire.

Gillett, Wis., May 21.—[Special.]—About 2,000,000 feet of logs are on fire at Holt's Spur, near the Northwestern tracks. The flames are said to be spreading to Isaacson's and Newald's saw mills at Newald. A brisk west wind is blowing and Gillett is in danger.

Rain in Northern Peninsula.

Escanaba, Mich., May 21.—[Special.]—Out of the chaos resulting from the widespread forest fires of Friday order is gradually being restored. All danger is now over because the rains that fell today extinguished the last of the smoldering fires.

Gov. Warner wired today that if help was needed he could furnish it. He asked for information regarding the homeless. While there are many who would welcome assistance, those who lost their homes spread over such wide territory that their friends and neighbors can take care of them, and people at large will not have to be called upon.

Nahma in No Danger.

Nahma, Mich., May 21.—[Special.]—The fire which swept over the forest northwest of Escanaba did not reach this far east. Many inquiries from anxious relatives of people here have been coming in.

NEBEKER IN UBERO SCANDAL?

Witness Tells of Connection of Former United States Treasurer with Company.

Boston, Mass., May 21.—[Special.]—The manner in which the name of former United States Treasurer E. H. Nebeker was used as treasurer of the Ubero properties was shown today in the testimony of Charles F. Richards of New York at the trial of Ferdinand Borges, promoter and manager of the defunct Ubero company, who is charged with misappropriating funds.

The company's account was subject only to check of former United States Treasurer Nebeker, but another account, called account No. 2, was kept at the same bank, and this was subject to check of the assistant treasurer, who drew on it by order of Mr. Borges.

It was the practice, Mr. Richards said, as fast as money was received to transfer it to account No. 2 by checks drawn by Mr. Nebeker, who all the time was at his home in Covington, Ind. Checks of Nebeker ranging in amounts from $40 to $1,000 and dated ahead were kept constantly on hand in the office. Thus Borges had complete control of all money taken in.

PLEA TO SOCIALIST SET.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCIETY INVITES MORE RECRUITS.

Sends Out Light in Shape of Printed Matter in Pamphlets of Varied Hue—Recommends That Young Devotees and Others Seeking Enlightenment on Doctrines Read Books by Upton Sinclair, Jack London, and Other Authors.

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—The Intercollegiate Socialist society has gone and done it now. It has sent out the call of the wild to come and see the snake swallow its own tail, if the recipient of the appeal believes in violence. If the recipient is only a theatrical socialist the appeal suggests merely a kitten chasing its tail.

It has issued an appeal for the formation of a moneyed class within its own flock to raise funds so that the officer of the society will have time to write more books to be sold to college students who are to have their interest in socialism screwed up to the book buying point by the Intercollegiate Socialist society, the officers of which are, of course, the authors of the books to be bought by the students.

"It is proposed," says the appeal, "to find forty or fifty persons who will become sustaining members of the society, pledging themselves to contribute not less than $25 a year for as long as the work accomplished shall warrant it."

$25 Only as Minimum.

As $25 a year is mentioned only as the minimum sum there is no limit to which the flaunting of money by the favored class of forty or fifty may be carried. But the masses of the Intercollegiate Socialist society are strictly limited, held back and trodden on by the society's own constitution, which says:

"Any graduate or student of a college or educational institution of similar rank, or any one connected with the educational system of the country as instructor, who acknowledges membership by the payment of the regular dues of $5 a year," shall be a member.

Not content with their own methods of creating classes, the authors have modified the frozen "ten, twent', thirt'" of the cruel vaudeville fruit and adopted it as their own. Notice of that fact is printed as follows on some supplementary green leaflets sent out with the constitution and the appeal for sustaining members:

The Intercollegiate Socialist society offers three prizes to the student of any university, college, or educational institution above the rank of grammar school who is a member of the Intercollegiate Socialist society chapter of his institution, $50, $30, and $20 for the three best essays on socialism which, during the college year of 1905-'06, shall be prepared and used as regular college exercises. The papers submitted will be judged by a committee appointed by the society's executive board. All manuscripts must be typewritten and in the secretary's hands by June 10, 1906.

List of Offerings.

In addition to the pink and green leaflets there is a yellow one containing a list of the books on socialism recommended to college students by the society.

The list includes "The Scab," by Jack London; "The Significance of the Trust," by Gaylord Wilshire; "Poverty," by Robert Hunter; "The Jungle," by Upton Sinclair; "Our Bourgeois Literature," by Upton Sinclair; "What Life Means to Me," by Jack London; "History of Socialism in the United States," by Morris Hillquit; "War of the Classes," by Jack London.

Jack London, with four books on the list, is the president of the society recommending the books. Upton Sinclair, with only two books recommended, is nothing but a vice president. Morris Hillquit and Robert Hunter are on the executive committee, and Gaylord Wilshire is on the appeal committee to get funds to hire a secretary to distribute more books. Wilshire's magazine also is recommended to students for constant reading.

Lincoln Steffens and David Graham Phillips are not officers of the society, but "The Shame of the Cities" and "The Plum Tree" are both highly recommended by the society.

AERONAUTS MAKE LONG ASCENSIONS.

ACCIDENT AT THE FINISH.

Farmer Grasps Rope of Huge Balloon and Is Carried Into Air Hanging Head Down.

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Two balloon ascensions were made this afternoon from the Union gas works in the Bronx. The Nirvana, the largest balloon ever sent up in America, owned by Dr. Julian P. Thomas, an enthusiastic aeronaut, made a successful trip, but after landing in the darkness in Peekskill almost had a fatal mishap.

When Wilfred Croft, on whose farm the balloon alighted, came to its occupant's assistance he caught the ropes of the balloon, which bounced into the air, dragging him along, head downward, for a hundred feet before the two aeronaut's were able to get it to the ground.

The Nirvana sailed away at 4:45 and at 6:30 the Eros, a small balloon, owned by Oscar T. Handler of Hoboken, carrying also a reporter, sailed after the first balloon with the determination to beat it both in the length of time spent in the clouds and in the distance traveled. The Eros landed in Ardsley at 11:30.

Dr. Thomas Describes Trip.

Dr. Thomas tonight said there had been nothing particularly eventful about the trip.

"When we started out," said Dr. Thomas, "the first move after we were high up was to swing off toward Long Island.

"We hung up in the air over the sound and after a little while an air current caught us and whirled us back again. Again we swung out over the sound and the balloon finally was caught in an air current and started off on a whirl up the river. We were shot back and cut across the Hudson below Yonkers.

"We ran pretty low going over the Palisades and even got a few pictures. I believe, all told, we crossed the river four times in the course of the drive. Once we were within thirty feet of the water. Several boats came up, each eager to be in at the rescue. Levee guided the balloon away and we raced with several of them. One boat was with us for nearly three miles.

Attempt to Reach West Point.

"At length we decided to try to make West Point. It soon became evident that we could not get that far along and we decided to go back to the other side, where the woods are not so thick, and pick a place for landing. Levee set the balloon down on a nice spot back of Peekskill."

After Theater, Balloon Ride.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, May 21.—Dr. Bull, the eye specialist, in indorsing Dr. Daulnoy's theory regarding the treatment of eye diseases at high altitudes, recommends that a captive balloon be kept outside of every theater and art gallery to take passengers to an altitude of 3,000 feet. This, he says, would be a sure cure for headache or eye strain, and would do permanent good to the eyes.

ATTACK ON HARVARD STUDENTS

Boston Preacher Declares Verdant Youth Gravitate Between Saloons and Questionable Theaters.

Boston, Mass., May 21.—[Special.]—Dr. C. A. Crane at the People's temple today made a violent attack on Harvard students during a speech opposing the proposed law to permit saloons to keep open until midnight. He said:

"The chief among the buyers who demand it are not commercial travelers but verdant youths at Harvard who are deluded in the notion that rushing from the green rooms and questionable theaters with actresses to hotels is a mark of manliness and virility.

"These tender shoots, these easy marks for the saloon, furnish most of the custom for the midnight extension law issued in the name of a restrictive license."

TORTURED BY ITCHING ECZEMA
Suffered Tremendous Itching Over Whole Body—Scratched Until Bled—Worse at Night, With Soreness and Excruciating Pains—A Western Lady's WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES
"Last year at this time I suffered with a tremendous itching on my back, which grew worse and worse, until it spread over the whole body, and only my face and hands were free. For four months or so I suffered the torments of the damned, and I had to scratch, scratch, scratch, until I bled. At night when I went to bed things got worse, and I had at times to get up and scratch my body all over, until I was as sore as could be, and until I suffered excruciating pains. I did not know what it was, and resorted to a number of blood purifiers, using at times also Cuticura Soap. They told me then that I was suffering from eczema. Then I made up my mind that I would also use Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them according to instructions, and very soon indeed I was greatly relieved. I continued until well, and now I am ready to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one who suffers as did your obedient servant. Mrs. Mary Metzger, Sweetwater, Okla., June 28, 1905."
TORTURING, DISFIGURING
Humors, Eczemas, and Itchings Cured by Cuticura
The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalled head—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt.
Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c., Resolvent, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60), may be had of all druggists. A single set often cures. Potter Drug and Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

REULBACH WILD; NEW YORK WINS

RECORD MONDAY CROWD.

Seventeen Thousand See Visitors Get an Early Lead on Bases on Balls.

Murphy's Spuds were mashed by the Giants yesterday before the greatest Monday crowd ever assembled in Chicago. Perhaps 17,000 persons discovered it wasn't necessary to work and came out to the west side grounds.

They were repaid by seeing one of the most wretched, tiresome, and dragging games ever played by two alleged champion ball clubs. After two hours and a half of mediocre and bad baseball, senseless kicking, and wearisome delays, New York finally got the decision, 6 to 4.

The victory was handed to McGraw's men, who made six runs off of four hits—two of which cut no figure whatever in the result. Eleven bases on balls, two men punctured by speedy curves—and four little singles—yielded these runs, while the Spuds could get but three off of ten nice hits and three gifts. Even the umpires caught the infection. Klem was wretched on balls and strikes and O'Day missed the only close decision he had to make.

Reulbach Replaced by Beebe.

Three persons retired from the game—first Reulbach was chased, but not until he had wounded one man, given five passes, which, coupled with a scratch hit and an honest swat, had given the Giants four runs. Beebe succeeded him, and, although fearfully wild, he stopped McGraw's men and would have held them had not Chance and Evers made laughable errors.

Meantime, in the attack, the Spuds were threatening every minute. Their own wild baserunning prevented them getting started in the second, and in the third and fifth they almost overwhelmed Wiltse, who was witlessly rapidly. However, in every crisis some Spud stood still and permitted himself to be called out on strikes, trying to guess which way Klem would guess. Wiltse was weakening so fast that, after the fifth, McGraw dragged him out and sent in Matthewson, who checked the Spuds until the ninth, when they made a frantic effort to pull out the game, and came within a two bagger of it.

Sad Occasion for Fans.

It was a sad occasion for the 17,000 fans who had ducked work. New York, in its present form, had no license whatever to win anywhere from Chicago—but while the Spuds, as a team, played circles around the Giants, they could not overcome the heavy handicap imposed upon them by their pitchers.

Reulbach started wild, but Kling's grand throwing saved him in the first round. In the second gifts to Dahlen and Devlin and Gilbert's Texas league hit back of second filled the bases, and Dahlen scored when Bowerman rolled down a bounder to Evers so slow it was impossible to make a double play. In the third Bresnahan walked, Browne hit to Reulbach, who tried to cut off Bresnahan at second and lost both men. A gift to McGann stuffed the pillows, and Mertes' out sent home a run. Dahlen cracked a liner to left, sending home two more, and then Chance sent Beebe to the rescue, and New York stopped where it stood.

It had taken over an hour to play that much. Evers and Kling opened Chicago's third with hits, and Beebe began an air beating performance that lasted all afternoon. Slagle walked, filling the bases, and Sheckard's out sent home the run. Schulte stood still and let himself be counted out by Klem.

Bad Fielding in One Inning.

New York got that run back at once. Wiltse drew a pass, Bresnahan hit to Steinfeldt, and Chance dropped the perfect throw. Browne sacrificed, McGann hit to Evers, and with Wiltse cut off at the plate thirty feet Evers threw wide and low and let the run count. Mertes was called out on strikes and kicked himself to the clubhouse. Dahlen walked, but with the pillows full Devlin rapped a fly to Slagle.

The fifth saw the finish of Wiltse. Again Evers and Kling started with hits, and again Beebe struck out and again Slagle walked. Three balls and no strikes were called on Sheckard, and then he stood still and let himself be called out on strikes, one of which was wide. Schulte lobbed an easy fly to left between Dahlen and Bresnahan, sending home two runs, and Chance could have evened up the score with a hit, but failed.

McGann walked and Strang was hit in the sixth, and a wild pitch and an out sent New York's score to six.

Rally in the Ninth.

The chances seemed slim, yet the Spuds refused to be terrorized by the great Matthewson, and kept slashing and slamming away at his curves viciously. Until the ninth it was without result. Then, when hope seemed dead, Tinker opened up with a hit, but this time both Evers and Kling fell out on strikes, "evening up." Mertes kicked and was ejected from the game.

PHILLIES WIN CLOSE GAME.

Score Victory Over St. Louis Cardinals in the Ninth Inning by Count of One to Nothing.

St. Louis, Mo., May 21.—Courtney's single and Magee's three bagger in the ninth inning with one out resulted in a 1 to 0 victory for Philadelphia today. Both Brown and Sparks pitched fine ball and were well supported. Score:

CLEVELAND BASEBALL CRAZY.

Crowd of Fifteen Thousand Watches Reports of Naps-Athletics' Game, Stopping Street Traffic.

Cleveland, O., May 21.—[Special.]—That Cleveland has gone baseball crazy was demonstrated today when for three hours a crowd that finally was estimated at 15,000 packed Superior and Bond streets to watch reports of the Cleveland-Philadelphia game, play by play, on a huge diagram blackboard in front of a newspaper office. Extra police had to be secured to keep open an aisle on the sidewalk, but during the thirteen innings, when Cleveland won and the Athletics got men as far as third and second, all traffic stopped until the game ended. Merchants in the vicinity are talking of securing an injunction.

Dispersal of Los Angeles Nine.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 21.—James F. Morley, manager, has released all the players of the Los Angeles team. Morley told the players he had received offers from eastern clubs for them if they wished to sign. He added that if Los Angeles should be in the league next season he wanted them back. Morley signed a release for each player and they agreed to play here next year on condition this club was in the league. Bernard will go to Columbus, O., Toner to Buffalo. Ats probably to New Orleans. Gray to Boston, and Eager to the Southern league.

Von der Ahe Again in Game.

St. Louis, Mo., May 21.—[Special.]—Chris von der Ahe has reentered the independent baseball field. He has sent a challenge to Jimmy Callahan, president of the Chicago independent baseball club, for a series of five. Vondy is serious, and declares he is in the old game for keeps. Vondy's club is composed of all St. Louis players, and is called the St. Louis browns.

Saturday Ball Games.

Saturday free lance baseball games have been arranged as follows: Leland Giants at Logan Square park, Schoenhofens at River Forest, Oak Leas at Rogers Park, Austins at Artesian park, Nebraska Indians at Gunther park, Mutuals at Moline, Ben Allens at Clyde, Columbia Giants and Englewood Athletics at Ogden's grove, Lakesides and Highland Park Crescents at Ravinia park, Chicago Union Giants at Chicago Heights, Trops at Maywood, Woodstocks at Elgin.

WHITE SOX BEAT NEW YORK TEAM.

Wild Heave by Elberfeld in the Seventh Gives Chicagoans Game, 7 to 6.

FIVE PITCHERS ARE USED.

Doc White Is Relieved by Owen; Chesbro and Clarkson Are Knocked Out of Box.

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Chicago's White Stockings began their series with the Highlanders today and in a weird and wild contest nesed out Griffith's men, 7 to 6. It was a seesaw game from start to finish.

"Kid" Elberfeld was responsible for the Sox' victory. The "Kid" made one of his celebrated heaves into the first base bleachers in the seventh inning and two runs went over the plate in a hurry. That heave settled the result of the game, for the Highlanders were never able to overcome the lead.

Five pitchers were used, two for the Sox and three for New York. "Doc" White, pitching his initial game of the season, was altogether too easy for the Highlanders, and after they had made nine hits and six runs off him Jones yanked him out of the box and sent Owen in. That was after the seventh inning, and not a run was scored off the Ypsilanti boy.

Chesbro opened for New York and he was bumped out of the box in the fifth inning as usual. Clarkson relieved him but was even worse, and Manager Griffith finally took up the task. "Griff" was going along fine until Elberfeld cut in with that heave.

The Highlanders jumped to the front, scoring in the first. Elberfeld reached second on Dundon's wild heave, but was nailed at the plate by O'Neill after Chase had singled. Chase went to second on the play and scored on Williams' single. Elberfeld singled in the third, stole second, and counted on Davis' bad throw in attempting to complete a double play, and the Sox were three behind.

Conjakey's men got going in the fourth and counted one run on a single, a pass, and another single. New York added a pair in its half of this round. Moriarity doubled, McGuire beat out a bunt, and Chesbro forced McGuire. Dundon threw wild and Moriarity scored. A wild pitch put Chesbro on third and Keeler's fly to Jones scored him.

Chicago tied up the score momentarily in the fifth with three runs, driving Chesbro to cover, but the Highlanders broke it in their half with another. In the sixth the visitors got a run without a hit on three passes and a wild pitch, and this ended Clarkson's little act.

The next session saw Jones open with a "Texas leaguer," but he was forced on Sullivan's bunt. Tannehill drew a pass and Dundon hit to Williams, forcing "Tanny." Elberfeld tried to double Dundon, but instead hurled the ball into the bleachers and both Sullivan and Dundon scored.

Notes of the White Sox Game.

Chicago pays two more names here.

Elberfeld's triple in the seventh was the result of a collision between Jones and O'Neil, which knocked the wind out of both for several minutes.

Connolly called a ball on Griffith right at the start of his pitching, although the ball cut the heart of the plate. Grif was hunching off the rubber after the scuffle to it.

New York claimed Tannehill interfered with Elberfeld and caused him to throw into the bleachers. The crowd hooted Connolly when he wouldn't allow it, although Elberfeld's play was legitimate.

In spite of the fact White was taken out, he gets credit for winning the game, for Chicago had scored all its runs and New York its six when he left. There were no outs in the seventh when he retired.

Neither side had much on the otherin the way of mistakes, although most of New York's were errors of commission, while Chicago fumbled in a few of judgment and omission as well. The Sox tossed off the first half of the game to the Highlanders, and then Griffith's men, not to be outdone, tossed it back again.

CLEVELAND WINS LONG GAME.

Defeats Philadelphia Athletics in Thirteen Inning Battle by a Score of 2 to 1.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 21.—Philadelphia today lost its first contest to a western club, Cleveland taking the game after thirteen innings of hard playing, 2 to 1. The winning run was scored on a home run hit by Bemis. Waddell and Eells pitched great ball, the former retiring in the ninth inning to permit Lord to bat for him. Score:

Detroit, 2; Boston, 1.

Boston, Mass., May 21.—The Boston Americans equaled the record for successive defeats incurred by a major league team today when Detroit defeated them by 2 to 1. It made the seventeenth defeat for Collins' men. Mullin's effective pitching was too much for the visitor in the game. Collins' errors were costly, but he also contributed the leading fielding features. Score:

Amherst College Star Pitcher.

EDSON A. McRAE

Pitcher McRae of the Amherst nine, which plays at Marshall field tomorrow afternoon, is one of the best college pitchers in the country. Last year he figured in the famous seventeen inning no hit game against Princeton, which the latter won by a score of 1 to 0 without a safe drive. During that season he defeated Harvard, Brown, and Cornell. This year he has defeated Yale, Pennsylvania, and Dartmouth.

NORTHWESTERN IS DEFEATED BY UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO.

Purple Batters Pale Before Pitcher Sullivan in the Game at Evanston—Poor Head Work Also a Factor.

Poor batting and lack of head work at critical times was the cause of another defeat for Northwestern at the hands of the maroons at Evanston yesterday. The score was 4 to 1, both sides scoring in the first inning. Two runs were made by Chicago in the fourth on a wild throw by Dubois.

The work of the purple infield was above the average, but the game showed that the coaches' efforts to improve the batting have been useless, and the men were unable to find Sullivan's twisters. Score:

Tell City,

NEW LAND FOR SETTLERS.

GOVERNMENT WILL OPEN THE SHOSHONE RESERVATION.

Places of Registration Will Be Located on the Burlington and Northwestern Railroads — Agricultural, Mineral, and Timber Tracts Comprised in the Allotment of 1,150,000 Acres—W. C. Brown Will Remove to New York for New Post.

The Shoshone reservation will be thrown open to the public on July 15. Announcement to this effect will be made within a few days by President Roosevelt. This means that 1,150,000 acres of valuable land in Wyoming will be opened to homeseekers, and it is expected there will be a rush to get on the reservation. It is known some of this land is valuable for agricultural, lumbering, and mineral purposes.

The information about the opening of this reservation was brought to Chicago yesterday by C. S. Roberts, mayor of Worland, Wyo., who is returning home from a visit to Washington where he has been in consultation with the secretary of agriculture. He says it has been decided the places of registration for the new land will be at Worland and Thermopolis on the Burlington road in the northeastern part of the state and at Shoshone and Lander on the Northwestern in the southwestern part of the state.

Land Acquired from Indians.

Two weeks will be given in which to file claims. This land was recently deeded to the government by the Indians, who lived on it for years. They have kept a small section for themselves. It is declared by Mr. Roberts and others who are familiar with this territory that there are 400,000 acres of fine irrigable agricultural land in the reservation.

Already the department of agriculture has had surveys made for irrigation ditches, and it is believed this work will be completed in time to have the water turned on next spring.

Millions of Ties Laid.

The department of agriculture has issued a statement showing the number of cross ties purchased by the steam railroads of this country in 1905. The number used on electric lines is not given. The aggregate trackage of the lines reporting is 278,262, or 95 per cent of the total steam mileage.

The number of ties reported is 80,051,000, of which 30 per cent, or 22,569,000, were used for the construction of new track.

The Freight Claim association, which has just concluded its annual meeting at the Sanders' hotel, St. Louis, has elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—Robert Kirkland, Illinois Central.

First vice president—J. E. Leith, Frisco.

Second vice president—A. B. Thompson, Lackawanna.

Secretary and treasurer—Warren P. Taylor, re-elected.

The next convention will be held in Denver in June, 1907.

New Honor for Brown.

W. C. Brown has been appointed senior vice president of the New York Central lines and will shortly take up his residence in New York. His duties will include the general supervision of the construction and operation of all the lines in the system and he will relieve President Newman of much of the latter's work. It is believed Mr. Brown is destined to succeed Mr. Newman in the presidency and that Mr. Newman in turn will succeed Chauncey M. Depew as chairman of the board.

LOMAX PROPERTY IS SOLD.

BROOKS ESTATE OF BOSTON ADDS TO CHICAGO HOLDINGS.

In One Family's Possession Nearly Half a Century—Now Occupied by the Plant of the Consolidated Bottling Company — Republic Metalware Company Buys Several Lots in Wabash Avenue, Near Sixteenth Street.

The Brooks estate of Boston has purchased the Lomax property, southeast corner of Congress and Franklin streets. The property fronts 212½ feet with a depth of 105 feet, and comprises 28,732 square feet and has old brick and frame improvements, which have been occupied for years by the Chicago Consolidated Bottling company.

A nominal consideration is given in the deed, but the land is said to have been valued at about $18 a square foot, and, with the property given in part exchange, about $400,000 is said to have been involved in the deal.

It is the purpose of the Brooks estate to improve the property with high grade modern structures adapted to the requirements of that locality.

Owned 49 Years by One Family.

The sellers were represented in the transaction by Edgar M. Snow & Co. and the purchaser by Aldis & Co. The sales department of Thomas A. Hall acted as intermediary brokers.

The sellers are George Lomax, who conveyed a half interest, James H. Lomax, and Robert D. Lomax, each of whom conveyed a quarter interest, subject to the life estate of Maria Robisham, widow of the late John A. Lomax, and Maria Robisham, who conveyed her life estate.

Part of the property has been owned by the Lomax family for forty-nine years, and one of the sons of John A. Lomax was born there.

In part payment the purchaser conveyed 120x124 feet at the northwest corner of Madison street and Ashland avenue, with one and two story brick store building; southeast corner State and Twenty-sixth streets, 125x117 feet, with two-story store and flat buildings; and 100x140 feet at southeast corner Lincoln and Webster avenues, improved with store and flat buildings.

Lots Sold in Wabash Avenue.

The Republic Metalware company, formerly C. Sidney Shepherd & Co. of Buffalo and Chicago, has bought 66.6x172 feet adjoining the St. Charles Air Line in Wabash avenue, near Sixteenth street for $69,680. The property will be improved with a high grade warehouse, to cost around $250,000. The sales were negotiated by James W. Hedenberg of E. A. Cummings & Co. W. S. Rose, connected with Perry Ulrich, and R. Willis of H. H. Walker & Co.

Dr. Robert G. Werner has bought from the Daniel Wells estate of Kenosha county, Wis., a stock and dairy farm, comprising 364 acres, for $140,000. He gave in part payment the Devonshire apartments at Wabash avenue and Twenty-eighth street and the Woodlawn at Fifty-fifth street and Woodlawn avenue. Hanlon, Buttler & Co. represented the seller and J. W. Dowd the purchaser.

PRACTICAL WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

To most people the wireless telegraphy seems a sort of necromancy. They regard it as a kind of a plaything. Stories of vessels holding communication in midocean with both continents have awakened great interest, and yet only passing interest in an age used to wonders and fearful of taking too much time in thoughts of strange things lest it appear ignorant and unlearned. As a consequence the wireless experts have been able to work away quietly perfecting their machinery until it bids fair to make for itself a necessary place in the economy of the day.

This is illustrated by some modest dispatches printed in the bulletin showing the movements of ocean steamers. Many an anxious reader in days past has read with joy a line which stated that a particular steamer had "passed the Lizard." That was sure evidence of the early completion of the long voyage across the Atlantic. Even that record represented the triumph of human ingenuity, for the information was sent from the Lizard to be cabled under the sea to America, thus giving tidings of a vessel much ahead of the time of actual completion of the ocean trip. But now the dispatch reads, "Lizard—Steamer Philadelphia from New York reported 240 miles west of this place at 1:30 a. m.; probably will reach Plymouth about 4:30 p. m."

Now, when the Lizard gets into communication with a vessel 240 miles to the west, and Siasconset, Mass., is able to report that a steamer was 100 miles east of Nantucket lightship at 3:40 a. m., and would probably reach its dock at 7 o'clock the next morning, it is evident that the ocean is steadily shrinking, and that, with the vessels getting larger and faster each year, and the two continents actually joined in communication through a steamer 1,500 miles from any land, the traveler need not be out of touch with the happenings of the world for more than one day at most instead of the six or more of the past.

This new development of means of communication may result in reducing the benefits of ocean travel among which has always been counted the possibility of getting entirely away from the newspapers and their record of the world's doings, and so of having the mind entirely free from the anxious strain which attends a lively connection with the activities of existence. But, on the other hand, it may tend to stimulate desire to travel by relieving the fears of many who have dreaded to get out of touch with their own even for the short space of a week. The improvement in transmission of news which the wireless telegraphy when perfected may make will be but another step in the steady progress of science toward the reduction of the size of the earth until every man may touch elbows almost with his neighbor half way round the globe.

WOMEN IN POLITICS.

Mr. H. G. Wells, the English writer who has forecast the future in many works of fiction and who has written serious studies of mankind as existing today, has been visiting America. In an interview in New York he mentions as one of the characteristic things in this country the scanty interest which women of wealth take in politics. He offers against this the fact that they are doing good in other directions, as in their work for the benefit of the poor.

Mr. Wells does not mean that the wealthy women of England who are interested in politics do not also take interest in charitable work. On the contrary, it is probably true that there are in England more societies for relief, reform, and education, supported mainly by women, than can be found in America. It is true also that in the states of the union which give women the right to vote and to hold office the number of good works in which women engage is limited only by the fact that no such need exists as in the older states. There may be crime in the newest states, but there are no slums with squalid children growing up to vice and misery. The women in those states have more time for politics, but, on the one hand, they are as interested as any women in all kinds of good works, and, on the other hand, even the female voters are not so deeply interested in politics as the Englishwomen.

One reason for the difference is probably the different character of the English constituencies. In a country where respect for wealth and rank is as ingrained as in England the voter is more flattered at a personal interest in himself manifested by ladies of the quality. The electoral body is smaller and it is possible to know personally the larger number of the voters. Another reason why women of wealth are interested in elections is because the candidates are their brothers and friends. Until the last election the men elected to parliament belonged almost exclusively to the narrow circle of the fashionable world. They represented family, rank, or wealth rather than the people. Their female relatives and friends were eager for their success, without necessarily knowing anything about the merits of the platforms of the contending parties.

In this country the interference of wealthy women on behalf of a candidate would be likely in most cases to do more harm than good. When there is a vital question at issue the women are ready to take an active part. The enthusiasm of the women had a great share in the clash of parties during the civil war and the years immediately preceding and following it. But where the right and wrong are not divided so sharply and the questions discussed are questions of expediency the women are not ready to endanger their real influence by taking sides in political disputes where the issue is not felt to be of serious importance. The cleverest women in American politics are those who advise their husbands and friends without the public ever suspecting that such and such a brilliant stroke of statesmanship or political management originated in a woman's mind.

THE HEIGHT OF IMPRUDENCE.

Collusive suits are risky. When a court sees evidence of collusion it dismisses the suit and uses harsh language to the parties implicated. It behooves the city officials who are anxious to have the validity of the $75,000,000 Mueller law certificate ordinance tested to walk carefully or they will incur the displeasure of the Supreme court. They should not proclaim from the housetops the fact that they intend to do something which that court has said on more than one occasion is highly improper.

A few years ago a made up suit was begun for the purpose of getting from the court a decision as to the validity of the anti-butterine law. When the case reached that court it saw that it was a fraudulent proceeding and made the following caustic remarks:

> There was no real issue between the parties. They were really on the same side of the case. Courts will not take cognizance of cases of this character. They are frauds upon the court, and persons engaging in them are guilty of conspiracy and fraud and have no standing in court. It is the duty of the courts to dismiss such cases when they are presented.

It was said, also, that the parties to this sham litigation were amenable to punishment for their contempt of court.

It has been announced semi-officially that arrangements have been made for the bringing of a suit of injunction to restrain the printing of some Mueller law certificates. A law firm has been selected by the city officials to represent the dummy taxpayer who will obligingly lend his name to the proceedings. He is to be put to no expense. Somebody besides himself will pay his lawyers. Apparently it is the intention that the city shall pay those on both sides. Then there will be "no real issue between the parties."

It seems highly indiscreet on the part of Mayor Dunne and his law advisers to give public notice to the Supreme court that preparations are being made for a sham suit. Some one of the judges will read the interesting statement and will remember it. The dummy taxpayer and his employers will be scored by the court when the case gets to it.

The application for an injunction in the $75,000,000 ordinance matter should be a genuine one. It should be made by a man who is opposed to the ordinance and who hires his own lawyer. The merits of the question are likely to be gone into more thoroughly in such an event than if the lawyers on both sides are paid by the same party.

INVESTIGATE.

The first vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad is shocked by the revelations of graft among its officers and employés. He says they "surprise the management." He says the facts will be investigated and no practice harmful to the interests of the company or the public will be tolerated.

The ignorance of the management is surprising, it may, indeed, be called inexcusable, for the obnoxious practices which have been exposed are of long standing. Many years ago the then president of the road, together with some of his subordinates, was given shares or stock in a newly organized coal company. The custom of receiving douceurs, or bribes, from coal shippers was so widely prevalent that it is difficult to understand how "the management" could have been blind to it.

The plea of ignorance can be used only once. The men who control other railroad systems have been given public notice of the existence of a peculiar form of railroad grafting which seems to thrive best in soft coal districts. It is incumbent on the men responsible for the honest management of roads which traverse coal producing regions to begin at once inquiries to ascertain whether their employés of high or low degree have not been bought up by coal companies or have not been blackmailing them. There should be no waiting for the interstate commerce commission to investigate.

There are many coal mines in Illinois and Indiana. One would like to know to what extent stock in the companies which own them is held by officials of Illinois or Indiana railroads who have it in their power to extend favors in the way of furnishing cars or of buying coal for railroad use. Naturally, an official will give that business to a coal company in which he has a pecuniary interest, even though the railroad may be able to buy elsewhere on better terms. There the officer is directly robbing his employer. Some eastern roads have suffered in this way.

If a searching investigation shall show that the baneful practices which obtain on the Pennsylvania railroad are not prevalent on western lines it will be greatly to their credit. Even if the investigation shall reveal no wrongdoing it will be equivalent to serving notice on officials and employés that there is at least one form of railroad grafting which will not be tolerated.

SIMPLE STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

As the warm season comes on it is borne in upon the householder that the pleasantness of the city could be immensely enhanced by more grass and plantations along the walks in the public streets. To that end, too, a campaign would be in point against the leakage of gas which poisons plant roots from below and the soot which chokes plant leaves from above. While waiting for relief respecting these particulars, such improvements as it is practicable to make in residence streets to enhance their desirability for homes should be promoted.

One such improvement would be the planting of more shade trees. Some varieties of trees will not flourish in the central districts of the city; but certain varieties—the smooth leaved poplars, for example—will grow and grow rapidly almost anywhere. In the more favored regions one may safely plant any one of many varieties.

Another respect in which a great number of residence streets might be improved is in narrowing their pavements. Many such streets would be made decidedly more attractive, and at the same time less expensive to maintain, if their pavements were cut down from 10 to 33 1-3 per cent in width. This matter was emphasized by Mr. John W. Alvord in his admirable report of three years ago to the Commercial club on the streets of Chicago. He called attention to the fact that the pavements of many residence streets are much wider than they need to be for any practical ends, and that to narrow them would not only reduce special assessments but would lessen the hot glare of the street in summer, diminish its dust bearing surface, and permit wider grass plots along the sidewalks.

There is also a group of residence streets which have suffered through being closed by track elevation and which might recoup a part of their loss by having their closed ends sodded and perhaps embellished with some plantations. Possibly trees would not survive the smoke from the passing engines; but pending the displacement of steam by electricity, grass and perhaps some varieties of shrubs would grow on the embankments and over the ends of the streets.

If the time for planting this spring has already passed, the warm weather should enforce its lessons on these subjects for the future. Every touch of ugliness obscured and every foot of needless pavement displaced by the cool green of plant life is a gain to the streets of the city, and especially so in residence neighborhoods.

CANADA AND THE PHILIPPINES.

[From the Canadian Magazine.]

Canada is interested in noting how the United States governs the Philippines. It gives an indication of their ability to work in new spheres. One of their faults is excessive patriotism. For example: When the United States people arrived at Manila they found several British firms established there, with large fleets of steam launches and barges with which to discharge the large ocean steamers lying in the bay. The liberty loving American at once announced that only boats flying the American flag and of American registry could carry on business in that harbor. The consequence was that the British firms had to sell out or appear to sell out to Filipinos and have their vessels registered in the names of Columbia's yellow citizens. At the city of Victoria, on the island of Hongkong, 600 miles away, there are American firms with American launches flying the United States flag and carrying on exactly the same business under the protection of Great Britain. The contrast is remarkable. Moreover, no British subject is allowed to own agricultural or mining lands, and these, too, have had to be registered in the names of Filipinos. The object lesson will not be lost on Canada.

All is not going smoothly in the governing of those islands. One native governor is said to have made a strong protest against the "grafters" and "virtue despoilers" from the United States. As a consequence, President Roosevelt is likely to make some early changes in both the methods and the men. Industrially and commercially, the Americans have done well, but morally they are having an evil influence in Manila and other large towns. A people whose gods are money and licentiousness cannot but expect to be criticised by nations who have still a little faith in culture, religion, and virtuous living.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1906: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

So great is the authority exercised by the triumvirate of stewards of the English Jockey club, who exercise virtual control of the turf throughout the length and breadth of the British empire, and whose influence extends to racing circles everywhere abroad, that the election of two new stewards the other day at Newmarket deserves to be placed on record.

The two new stewards are Lord Stanley and Lord Downe, both of them men who have already filled the office. Lord Stanley is the eldest son and heir of the earl of Derby, was postmaster general in the Balfour administration, and is married to a daughter of the duchess of Devonshire. Lord Downe is a retired cavalry general and has served as special ambassador to the court of Teheran. Together with their colleague, Col. Baird, son-in-law of Gen. Sir Stanley Clarke, the king's senior equerry, they constitute not merely the executive of the Jockey club but likewise the supreme tribunal in all matters affecting the turf—a tribunal from which there is no appeal and which has the power of inflicting the most drastic of all punishments—namely: the sentence to be "warned off the heath" of Newmarket. While the "heath" is specifically mentioned, it virtually means that the culprit is warned off the turf; that he is barred from every race course, both at home and abroad, and that he is condemned for the remainder of his life to a social ostracism more cruel than death.

As a general rule this sentence is inflicted for flagrant cases of dishonesty in connection with the running of horses. But there have been several instances—notably that of Robert Siever two or three years ago—where men who have run their horses straight have been warned off the turf on account of ignominy in other matters. Thus Robert Siever, a brother-in-law of the late marquis of Ailesbury and owner of the famous race-horse Sceptre, was foolish enough to bring a suit for slander against Sir James Duke, who had objected to his presence as a visitor in one of the Pall Mall clubs. Subjected to a pitiless cross-examination as to a number of unsavory but forgotten incidents in his career, the plaintiff made so deplorable a showing that the court gave a verdict in favor of Sir James, holding his remarks to have been fully justified, while the Jockey club proceeded to warn Siever off the turf. Briefly speaking, the triumvirate of stewards of the Jockey club may be said to constitute a tribunal for the punishment of those offenses which cannot well be reached by the law of the land—that is to say, offenses against honor.

The English Jockey club remains just as exclusive as ever, and shares with the royal yacht squadron, which is its maritime counterpart, a celebrity for liberality in the matter of blackballs. Thus, although at least a dozen candidates were put forward for election last year—most of them men of rank, of wealth, possessed of large racing stables, and devoting thousands of pounds each year to the turf—only one managed to get in, namely: young Lord Howard de Walden, all the others succumbing to the ballot, even though there were several of them who had the strongest kind of royal backing. In fact, the latter is rather a handicap than an advantage. For, no matter how loyal Englishmen may be, they resent any attempt by members of the reigning house, or even the sovereign himself, to influence club politics, taking the ground that in a club all members are equal and on the same footing, no matter what their social status outside.

From St. Petersburg I hear that there is a probability of Count Vladimir Lamsdorf, who has just resigned the post of minister of foreign affairs, being appointed ere long to the office of minister of the imperial house. This is an office for which he is preëminently fitted, having passed his entire career since he entered the government service as a mere youth in the immediate entourage of the imperial family. It is precisely owing to this that he never had much experience of life abroad, and that his knowledge of foreign statesmen and situations is only such as he has been able to pick up when traveling in the suite of the present emperor and his two predecessors, all three of whom have been fond of him, looking upon him as an old and tried servant, imbued with the most absolute devotion and of the most sterling integrity.

The count owes his nobiliary title to the fact that his grandfather was wont to flog and brutally maltreat the prince who afterwards ascended the throne as Nicholas I. In 1802 Gen. Matthew Lamsdorf, popularly known at court as "old Papa Lamsdorf," was selected as chief mentor and governor of Grand Duke Nicholas Paulovitch, then a mere boy. The general knew nothing about educating scions of royalty, but made up his mind that the best way would be to apply to his imperial pupil the discipline which he had been accustomed to apply to the troops under his command. Accordingly he used to flog the young grand duke on the slightest provocation in the most inhuman fashion, with birches, canes, rulers, and even ramrods. Nor did he make any concealment of his severity, but inscribed each punishment inflicted in the daily reports which he drew up, and which are still preserved in the imperial archives.

In 1817, on the occasion of the marriage of Grand Duke Nicholas to Princess Charlotte of Prussia, the sister of old Emperor William of Germany, he was created a count by Czar Alexander I. at the request of the dowager czarina. But it was not with the approval of Nicholas, for the latter never forgot or forgave "Papa" Lamsdorf, and on one occasion, when discussing his youth with Count Kisseleff, remarked concerning the old general: "God Almighty will be his judge for the abominable education which he gave me." It is greatly to the credit of Nicholas, however, that he did not allow his resentment against his former tutor to prevent him from being kind to the latter's sons, and from that time forth the Lamsdorfs have always been trusted and favored members of the entourage of the reigning family at St. Petersburg.

Heinrich	Albert Pellaton
Wilhelm	Henry Coote
Frederich	Percy Parsons
Ferdinand	Laurence Rea
Ilsa	Lina Abarbanell
Frau Bertha	Fannie McIntyre
Fantine	Bettie Otis
Lady Anne	Flavia Arcaro

If light operas only could be played for about three weeks before they are produced! The operas themselves would be greatly improved by the arrangement; the managers would know whether they had a success or a failure, and, if the latter, could avoid the production; the performers could know what to do and how to do it; and the public would find a first night wholly satisfactory instead of only partly so.

But there has to be a first night. And so long as there is a first night there will be an audience for it. And the work must need be judged, at least in part, from that first night performance. "The Student King" had a first night at the Studebaker last evening. The first night audience was present in full force and in all its fashionable splendor—an audience which gave no hint in either quality or size that the summer season is at hand. And the performance?

It was a good one as first night performances go. It was far from what the performance will be by the end of this week or the beginning of the next, but it sufficed to show that "The Student King" contains material which is above the average in certain respects and up to average in others. Mr. De Koven's music is in many ways better than has been put forward in light opera in quite a time, and the production which Mr. Savage has supplied is a handsome one. The book is weak—weaker than usual—but books have become a negligible quantity in light opera nowadays, and many a success has been evolved out of less than is at hand in the present instance.

The work as it now stands may be summed up as containing a first act which is attractive and which, when it runs smoothly and is brightened a little along comedy lines, will be interesting and effective; a second act, which is barren of everything save some well written ballet music which fails to reach its hearers and an excellent finale; and a third act which is capital. Can the second act be strengthened, or, better still, eliminated entirely, and the first and third acts brought into snappy shipshape, a success is assured. Mr. De Koven has written some of the best music that he has penned since he wrote "Robin Hood." He has striven for a good grade of music and he has done his work well. He has employed with good judgment and nice discrimination certain distinctively national dance forms, has introduced some numbers in the old English style, and has copied certain student song effects with excellent understanding.

The result is music that is better than usually is found in present day light opera, and it was interesting to note that some of the numbers which found the most immediate and pronounced success were those which were of the better class and had the national or student color. The Tyrolean landler in the first act, the student song which accompanied the choosing of the student king, the Czardas in the second act, the excellent opening numbers of the third act, and the rollicking "Noodle, Noodle, Nupp, Nupp," are among the gems of the score and they found heartiest favor. Of course the topical "I Took Them All," the duet, "That Is Love," the cheap "Same Old Game," and the final "Wine, Women, and Song," were applauded because Mr. Hitchcock and his assistant funmakers were responsible for them, but none of these seemed to take with the audience so thoroughly as did the better numbers in the score. The applause they received was that which follows a comic number and is kept up merely to see what the "next verse" will be.

The libretto has to do with the choosing of a student king in Prague in 1600 during carnival time. Francis, who is the heir to the throne, but has been stolen by a wicked minister and raised as a commoner, is made the king, who is to reign from noon till midnight. The old king takes his "twelve hours off," and, with his two ministers, devotes himself to getting hilariously intoxicated. The Princess Ilsa of Tyrol is to wed the old king, but she disguises herself as a peasant maid and comes to discover what he is like. She sees Francis, the student king, falls in love with him, as he does with her, and their love affair runs smoothly enough until she meets the old king at the carnival ball masked in similar costume to that Francis wears. She mistakes the king for her lover, lets him announce the betrothal, and then finds to her horror that she has promised to wed the wrong man. She disguises herself as a student, joins Francis, who defends her with his kingly authority, but, just as she is departing, the clock sounds midnight, and both the lovers are to be condemned to death, when Francis' real identity is revealed and all ends happily. It is a subject as old as the hills, and it is allowed to fall almost entirely to pieces in the second act. The comedy element is as yet extremely weak, and Mr. Hitchcock will have to exert himself and be given full sway if this portion of the work is to be brought up to what the public likes.

The company is a capable one. The chorus is excellent, the orchestra will be good when it comes to know the music and can be kept in the same measure with the singers. Last night the ensemble work was ragged to an exasperating degree. Of the principals, Mme. Abarbanell did much to carry the performance to success. She is an experienced and resourceful actress as well as an effective singer, and every number with which she had to do went with the vim and spirit that compel applause. Her voice is a soprano of good range, and, barring a tightness on the vowel a, is easily and well produced.

Mr. Weedon, as the Student King, seems inexperienced in acting. He was woodeny, but his voice is a full ringing tenor, which is heard to especial advantage in ensembles and in the student song in the third act. He should tame down his "Give Me Your Heart, Love." It suggests a holdup rather than a languishing love plea.

Mr. Hitchcock has at last little chance to show his best powers as a funmaker, but there is ample scope for him and them, and he doubtless will know how to make the most of it. He was cordially welcomed and heartily applauded. Mr. Leary and Mr. Seyffertitz are good as two opposing ministers, and Messrs. Poppin, Pellaton, Coote, and Rea are young men who displayed good voices and promising abilities. Miss Arcaro did good work as the fleshly Lady Anne, who assumed the name of Princess Ilsa, while the latter was disguised. She has true comedy talent and in the second act did much to save this part of the performance from failure. Miss Otis makes a pretty Fantine and sings attractively.

The costumes are of great beauty, and the production up to the highest Savage standard. The audience was friendly, and after the second act applauded until Mr. De Koven appeared and thanked everybody concerned.

At the Great Northern this week the Mark E. Swan farce, "Brown's in Town," is being given with good success. George A. Beane has the rôle of the father who keeps an eye on his son and by asking numerous questions concerning the concealed marriage of that youngster creates a series of complications which supply three acts of good fun. The rôle fits the comedian excellently and he plays it with evident enjoyment. Lew H. Newcomb is the son and carries off the part with effective lightness and dash. Richard Bartlett is the useful friend, Arthur Howard, and appears to advantage in the part. Edith Forrest makes a pretty Letty, Edyth De Valmaseda is a piquant Suzanne, who does a song and dance turn in the third act, and Lizzie Montgomery makes considerable of the rôle of the German heiress, Freda. The entertainment is a jolly one, and goes with snap and swiftness.

W. L. HUBBARD.

A TRIP TO EUROPE IN AN ARM CHAIR

BY CORA ROCHE HOWLAND.

It was the elder Hawthorne's plan, when he wished to gain an idea of the local population of an unfamiliar city, to sit by the window, preferably on a crowded corner, and watch what happened in the streets below. This method would serve well in small Italian cities or any of the lesser European places, and, so far as gathering curious and particular information concerning localities and special industries is concerned, it would be practicable in Paris. You would have a chance to see strange types, to gather together an interesting collection of data concerning the people and their ways, but you could not claim that you had seen Paris unless you changed your post from day to day to different quarters of the city, each of which has its separate interests and social outlook. For one who stays here a short time it is better to drive around in a comfortable cab, with a slow horse, keeping one's eyes open all the while.

To give an hour or two to the other plan would, however, be invaluable, particularly if one spent it in the quainter part of the Latin quarter—let us say on the corner of the Rue St. Jacques and the Rue de l'Abbé de l'Epée, right beside the church of St. Jacques du Haut Pas, of the square tower. In the first place, this is a historic neighborhood of old Paris. Right beside us is the School of the Deaf Mutes. If we were to go in this direction we should reach the old Roman arena, or, following that one, we would come to the Church of the Val de Grâce, domed by Mansart, on the model of St. Peter's, and containing in its crypt the hearts of princes and princesses of several royal houses. We are near to the Gobelins, too, state manufactory of the famous tapestry of that name, which was brought especially to the notice of the American public recently by the gift which France made to Alice Roosevelt of a magnificent specimen of the work, made in replica of a piece by Michel, called "The Manuscript," which is in the National library at Paris.

But what we have come specifically to this corner to see are the people who pass by us in the street. First, there is the old woman who sits in front of the church, a beggar really, though she makes a pretension of doing a service to all who wish to enter the edifice by holding open the door for them. She is a sad old crone, toothless and bald, her shriveled countenance wrinkled out of all resemblance to younger faces passing by; yet once, as we happen to know, she was one of the most beautiful models in Paris. Today she sits here on the gray church steps with a blackened cup of tin outstretched towards passersby. Because people know her history she is more fortunate than others of her kind, some of whom, having no homes to go to, wander about the old streets of Paris late at night, crying and moaning with misery and cold, gaining thereby a penny now and then from a sympathetic foreigner—never from a Parisian, however; the latter shrugs his shoulders and laughs if you say that it is pitiful.

But there are sights far more cheerful than this in the narrow street. Two wheeled carts of all kinds pass you, some pushed by men wearing the workman's blue blouse and by women who, if young, are bareheaded, and if older, are crowned each by a stiff white muslin cap. Some of the carts have fish in them, others have fruit and vegetables. If you want to do so you can stop this fellow here and buy a handful of strawberries and carry them home either in a brown paper cornucopia or a big green leaf. A garlic seller cries his wares as he proceeds along. Here is a vender who has dried twigs for sale; a bunch of them, which costs about 5 cents, will last a Parisian housewife several days for kindling. Here is a porcelain mender with his bag of tools.

Children of the poor, in their ugly blue or black frocks, all the boys having their heads close shaven, go by on the way to school with their shiny black sack of books or their school bags made of twisted string. They all wear rough shoes and short stockings, which show their red, bruised legs. One little fellow, about 9 years old, has mischievous black eyes. The chances are good that before the day is over he will be stood up in disgrace before the other scholars, not with a dunce's cap on, but instead with asses' ears of stiff white paper fastened on to the back of his head. In contrast with these plainly dressed children of the poorer classes are some dainty little people, some of whom, carrying shovels and diminutive red pails, seem to be going with their nurse to play in the gravel of the Luxembourg gardens, which are only a block away, and some others in a cab, who, from the direction which they pursue, are bound for a good time in the Jardin des Plantes, where they will drive in miniature carriages drawn by goats, or will ride the camel or the elephant.

A man "chambermaid" hurries by, going to draw water. He has a big apron on and a red handkerchief tied around his head, probably to keep the dust out of his hair when sweeping. A large percentage of the room servants of Paris are men, especially in the cheaper grade of hotels. Presently another one passes us, but he has his hat on. The way that he carries his two pails of water, so as not to spill a drop, attracts our attention. He is in the middle of an iron hoop, which encircles him about his knees and which passes through the handle of the pail on each side of him, thus enabling him to proceed without fear of the receptacles' hitting against him as he walks. And here comes the "frotteur." I was telling you about at St. Germain en Laye, the man who polishes the floors. Notice that he carries a little velvet bag. In it are his slippers, with the brushes on the bottom of them, also a piece of yellow wax, and, screwed into a ferruled stick which he swings jauntily like a cane is a claw like that which saddlers use, only smaller.

But we have stood here long enough. Those three old women on the corner who have stopped to gossip on their way to market are beginning to talk about us and wonder what we want. Let us go on down the hill and strike into one of the oldest streets and walk in the direction of the Gobelins, for all along that way there are the strangest old houses and the smallest shops imaginable.

Just glance into this barber shop as you go by. See, there are men, women, and children waiting their turn. Most barbers are hair dressers here in Paris, and in this neighborhood the majority of the shops do not have separate rooms for the women. Just stand long enough to observe that when the barber is not using his comb he sticks it in his own hair. Before using it on successive customers, however, he passes it through a flame to cleanse it, from which we conclude that his comb is made neither of celluloid nor rubber. By the way, the latest thing in Paris, as is advertised at a fashionable hairdresser's in the Rue de la Paix, is to have a bensine shampoo. The heaviest locks dry immediately, so that your precious time is not infringed upon, and afterwards your hair is as fluffy as that of a German anarchist, although this is not one of the advantages stated by the advertisement.

In one of the wider avenues we come upon a May moving. An enormous van, as large as a small house, but nearer the ground than any we ever see at home, and having broader, smaller wheels, is drawn up next to the curbstone. There are several men at work, packing the furniture into it with the most scrupulous care. They have plenty of hay and straw to put between the articles so that nothing will get crushed.

Exactly across the street a corner of the pavement has been torn up for repairs, and we get an opportunity to observe with what consideration of the public comfort streets are mended here in Paris. Only a portion of the roadway is altered at a time, so that traffic is interfered with to the minimum degree.

We are interested to see to what commercial uses the entrances of buildings are put. At one is a milk stand. Two or three weather beaten benches are dragged out in front of it and on them are bowls and measures of different sizes. Great cans of milk and cream stand on the sidewalk. A big flat basket of rolls and bread is fastened on the wall. A clean white piece of linen stretched over a board makes a neat background for the shining pails. Above the little outdoor shop, from one side of the wide doorway to the other, a rope is stretched, from which a curtain may be hung if the sun is hot.

Before a second doorway, which leads to a shabby court far, far into the recesses of the house, we see another shop where an old woman sits with a great pair of scales before her, and all around are big baskets of fruit and vegetables. The pushcart by which she brought her produce hither is shoved back in the passageway toward the court yard. A customer stops; the bargaining having been concluded and the purchase made, the merchant weighs on her hand the piece of silver received in payment, then rings it on the metal to see that it is genuine.

And finally here is a well to do Parisian housewife going to market with her cook, who carries the basket. In every quarter of Paris there are large markets, which, roofed over, are open to the air all around, and which consist of numerous booths, presided over equally by women and by men. The mistress of a house, coming hither, picks out the meats and vegetables usually for her kitchen, but not the groceries. The cook has the privilege of buying these and other trifles and receives a half penny on each franc expended from every tradesman with whom she deals.

But we must go now, although there is much more of interest which we could find were we to continue wandering through the old streets. This forenoon we are going to Père Lachaise, on the other side of the river, a gruesome place, but one that every one who comes to Paris feels that he must see. It is the largest and most interesting of Parisian burial grounds, and one where there are many famous monuments to even more famous people. It is, moreover, distinctly different from any that we find in America.

We have a long drive to get there, for it is in another part of town, and we cannot travel as expeditiously as a "Petit Bleu" or postal telegram does, which is shot across the city in a pneumatic tube and delivered at its destination in fifteen minutes. Before we start, however, let me say that the church of St. Jacques where we stood this morning is the favorite one in this quarter for funeral services, and one amusement of the children in the neighborhood consists in watching the processions come and go, and really this is no great wonder, for many a cortège is magnificent indeed. There are in Paris nine separate grades of funeral elegance, each of which has its fixed price, ranging from a few francs to something like $300, one company, the Compagnie des Pompes Funèbres, having charge of all burials within the department of the Seine.

Père Lachaise is really the most horrible burial ground one can imagine. This is primarily the fault of the hideous iron wreaths, usually

BASEBALL BECOMING A FASHIONABLE DIVERSION.

Pretty Wedding in Church of the Ascension, Miss Katherine P. Dalley Being Married to Mr. William Beekman Larrabee—Nuptials of Mr. John H. Wood of Chicago and Miss Pauline Verdin of St. Louis to Take Place June 6—Personal News.

It is counted great fun these days to go to the ball game, and there are a number of well known women who are going out to the west side ball park almost daily to witness the work of the Chicago nine. One party made up of north siders includes Mr. and Mrs. Orville Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Winston, and Mrs. Arrick Kirk. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stone were usually of the party before they left last Thursday for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. King, who must now be known as "of New York," have taken a house at Cedarhurst, L. I., for the summer and are occupying it. Mr. King was in town one day last week, and visited the new Saddle and Cycle club for the first time, having dinner out there with a few friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Larned Ryerson, 31 Banks street, have taken the Edmund A. Bullard house at Lake Forest for the summer and will go there on June 1 to occupy it.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Arnold Scudder, 584 Dearborn avenue, who own an island in Canada, will go there to spend the summer, leaving some time next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Galt, 378 Erie street, who are now in Atlantic City, are expected home about June 1.

Dr. and Mrs. George S. Isham, 488 North State street, will as usual spend the summer at Lake Geneva, expecting to leave June 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Heaton Owsley, 408 Erie street, will go to Glencoe to open their summer place on June 1.

Miss Rhea Logan, 2919 Prairie avenue, has as her guest Miss Quigley of Kansas, who was a former schoolmate. She arrived yesterday morning and will remain several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Odell, 145 Lincoln Park boulevard, will go as usual to Small Point Beach for a part of the summer, expecting to leave a day or so after July 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Gillett, 147 Lincoln Park boulevard, closed their apartment yesterday and moved to their country place at Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred B. Langmore, 545 Belden avenue, will leave the last of the week for Highland Park, to spend the summer there. Mr. Langmore's brother, Mr. Cyril Langmore, and the Rev. Father Joseph Hardy of Leicester, England, whom they have had for their guests, will go to Highland Park with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury, 234 Lincoln Park boulevard, have returned from Europe.

A pretty wedding took place yesterday in the Church of the Ascension in La Salle avenue, when Miss Katherine P. Dalley was married to Mr. William Beekman Larrabee. Father Larrabee, a cousin of the groom, performed the ceremony at noon.

The bride, who was gowned in white crêpe de chine made princess, and trimmed with duchy lace, had Miss Jane Larrabee, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, and Miss Elizabeth Cummins and Miss Sarah Atkinson as maids. Miss Margaret Steele and Miss Harriet Buckingham, two young girl friends of the bride, wearing gowns of organdie and lace, and carrying straw baskets filled with apple blossoms, were also of the bride's party, while Mr. Max Baird acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. George Foster and Mr. G. W. Hauser of New York. Miss Larrabee wore white organdie and a large white hat faced with pale blue, and she carried white lilacs, the other maids wearing white net gowns, white hats trimmed with pink rose, and carried bridemaid roses. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William J. F. Dalley of New York, formerly of Chicago.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. John Buckingham gave a wedding breakfast at their residence, 1832 Calumet avenue, for the newly married couple, their attendants, and relatives. After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Larrabee will go to New York to reside.

Mrs. Josephine Verdin, 4330 McPherson avenue, St. Louis, has issued cards for the wedding of her daughter Pauline to Mr. John Heath Wood of Chicago. The wedding is to take place at the home of the bride on Wednesday, June 6, at 7:30 o'clock. The relatives and a few immediate friends will witness the ceremony. A large reception will follow from 8 to 10 o'clock. The bride will be attended by her sister, Mrs. F. W. Lemp, as matron of honor. The bridemaids will be Miss Hazel Heath of Chicago, cousin of the groom, and Miss Eleanor Opel of St. Louis. Mr. William B. Uhlein of Milwaukee will attend Mr. Wood as best man, and the groomsmen will be Mr. William M. Harding of Indianapolis and Mr. Warren K. Wood, brother of the groom. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wood of this city.

The Twentieth Century club will meet on Friday evening, June 1, at 8:30 o'clock in the rooms of the Fortnightly, Fine Arts building, through the courtesy of Mrs. H. M. Wilmarth. The club will be addressed by Andrew Dickson White of Ithaca, N. Y., upon the subject, "The Prospects of Liberty in Russia." Each member may invite one resident guest to the meeting. It will be the seventeenth annual meeting of the club.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—(Special.)—The Russian ambassador and Baroness Rosen entertained a small dinner party tonight, complimentary to the newly arrived Japanese ambassador and Viscountess Aoki. The viscountess was indisposed, however, and sent her regrets. Invited to meet the distinguished foreigner were the Netherlands minister and Mme. Van Swinderen, Baron Schlippenbach, Russian consul general of Chicago, who is a house guest of the embassy; Señor Don Luis Pastor, chargé d'affaires of the Spanish legation; the counselor of the Japanese embassy and Mme. Miyaoka, Count and Countess Seckendorf, Miss Benham, Mlle. Elizabeth Rosen, and Prince Koudacheff of the ambassador's staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Reyburn were hosts of a river party, taking their guests in the afternoon down the Potomac on their yacht, Gretchen. Among those in the party were the French ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, Representative and Mrs. Hoar, Miss Cannon, daughter of the speaker; Senator Kean, Senator Beveridge, Mr. Bacon, assistant secretary of state; Senator Brandegee, Representative and Mrs. Longworth, Miss Williams, Gen. Crozier, and Miss McMillan.

AMONG ✣ THE ✣ NEW ✣ BOOKS.

A work of signal importance entitled "MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS" comes from the pen of T. H. Henderson. It appears in two copious volumes, and adds one more to the library of books already written upon the subject.

"My explanation," prefaces Mr. Henderson, "for seeking to add to the numerous works on Mary Stuart may be stated in a sentence. The aim of the present biography is to deal with the more personal aspects of Mary Stuart, that marvelous woman who "was brocht up in jousitie," and who came apart from ecclesiastical prepossessions, and the Marian period, and to deal with them on the understanding that the praise and blame of the twentieth century are not quite applicable to the sixteenth. Indeed, the more the present writer has concerned himself with the career of Mary Stuart the more he has been impressed with the inapplicability to it, in the strict sense, of praise or blame. Whatever the rights or wrongs of Protestantism or Catholicism, Mary appears to have been largely the mere victim of a bitter religious quarrel."

Upon that theory the author has elaborated his extensive biography, and in doing so has, in spite of his austere efforts to write impersonally, fallen under the spell of Mary Stuart's charm, as all men living or dead who have thought about her inevitably do. Over against the deceit, the ridiculousness, the fear, the smallness of Elizabeth of England, the passionate, wonderful, lusty living, doomed Stuart looms with incomparable radiance. None of her many sins is taken from her. She wears crimes and generosities alike, and the whole makes for her a magic garment of temperament, which shows her queenly in all hours.

As a study of character, Mr. Henderson's book must be entitled to consideration, although all soul scrutiny of Mary Stuart must, after Mr. Swinburne's intuitive and scholarly investigation, appear superfluous. A quotation from Mr. Henderson's detailed delineation will give the best indication of his attitude and method.

"It is obvious to ask," he writes, "why did Mary rush so heedlessly to place herself utterly in Elizabeth's power? The question is, in truth, more easily asked than answered, though it may be answered after a fashion by asking: Why did Mary marry Darnley? Why did she rouse the universal jealousy of the nobles by the honors she heaped on Riccio? Why did she enterprise with Riccio's guidance a Catholic conquest of Britain? Why did she not only further the Darnley murder plot but allow herself to get hopelessly entangled in it? Why did she stake her all, sparing neither honor, conscience, hazard, nor greatness, on her passion for Bothwell? And why permitted she him to carry her to his castle of Dunbar and to lead her afterward to a Protestant marriage altar? Why, indeed, except that she was a Stuart of the Stuarts—perhaps even, so far as concerned vigor and energy, mental and physical, the most remarkable of that peculiar royal race. Submissive though she had often been to what was hard and unpleasant, disciplined though she was from infancy to subordinate reality to convention, there was yet no holding her once she made up her mind to have her own way. She had the fatal Stuart endowment of a colossal royal egotism, entirely different from the egotism of Elizabeth—an egotism a constituent part of which, unlike any part of Elizabeth's, was sincere affection and much generosity toward her friends and dependents, but which was capable of such a concentration on an ambitious or passionate purpose that to her the obstacles in the way of its accomplishment hardly seemed to have an existence."

Mr. Henderson has not shown a disposition to neglect any man, woman, or incident which contributed to the great tragedy of this joyous woman's life. The dark Scotchmen—Knox the darkest of all—move around her like creatures of destruction, who fear, yet hate, the glittering, wonderful, dangerous creature caught in their net. It is a well ordered and adequate personal history which has been offered, and its value is much enhanced by the profusion of portraits and pictures of places which abound in these volumes. Mr. Henderson concludes his work by a fifty page dispute with Mr. Lang concerning the authenticity of the famous Casket Letters. The publication is imported into America by Charles Scribner's Sons.

The scene of "JUDITH," by Grace Alexander, is laid in the decade before the civil war, though historical time plays but slight part. A young girl returns from Paris to find the betrothal of her earlier years irksome, especially since she has met another man. Chastising herself she abides by her agreement until a way is opened for her to realize her greatest happiness. It is a story of unequal merit; the romantic portions are told with an intensity that demands attention; the attempt to give local coloring is most unhappy. The author is too much engrossed in evolving an exemplary piece of womanhood, in chastening Judith that she may be worthy the more to accept the full measure of happiness held for her, to elaborate to an acceptable roundness the other interests of the story. Here are eight greatly dissimilar enterprises, located in eight widely separated cities, all of which have found it to their advantage to place their advertising with us in Philadelphia.

The thoughtful business man will conclude from these facts:

That a good business is not a matter of location;

That an advertising opportunity does not depend entirely upon the line of business in which one may be engaged; and

That an advertising agency with such a clientele as this must have something out of the ordinary in the way of advertising service to offer which, at least, is worth investigating.

Full opportunity to investigate may be had by addressing us this week at the Auditorium Annex. Drop us a line there.

FENWICK'S CAREER

BY

MRS. HUMPHRY WARD

"This novel touches the highest point of Mrs. Ward's literary performance."—Brooklyn Standard Union.

"It attains a height hitherto unreached by Mrs. Ward. She has poured into it her deepest thought, her ripest wisdom, and Fenwick's Career stands today the noblest expression of her genius."—N. Y. Times.

"Far ahead of anything that Mrs. Ward has done. It is clear, direct, rapid and brilliant."—N. Y. Evening Sun.

"Her insight was never greater, her knowledge of the complicated web of human passions and aspirations was never shown to better advantage. It is the greatest of her novels."—Brooklyn Eagle.

A FIRST-CLASS
Newspaper and Plant For Sale
The Evening Herald
The Sunday Herald
The Weekly Herald
OF BALTIMORE, MD.

Under a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Maryland, the undersigned will sell the EVENING, the SUNDAY and the WEEKLY HERALD of Baltimore, with all their good will, plant and machinery, at public auction, at the rooms of the Real Estate Exchange, 226 St. Paul street, Baltimore, at 12 noon, Tuesday, May 29, 1906.

THE EVENING HERALD divides with one other paper of the first class the afternoon field of a city of 600,000. It is only twenty months old and its possibilities are undeveloped.

THE SUNDAY HERALD is a very profitable publication with a solid circulation and a fine advertising patronage. Its business can be very largely increased. It has been established over a quarter of a century.

THE WEEKLY HERALD, popular for thirty years, has a good general circulation.

All this property will be sold as a going concern, fully equipped with modern machinery, and offering the finest newspaper opportunity at present available in the United States.

Whether your desire be to make an investment capable of big returns or to get into the newspaper business in the most delightful city of America, this sale should have your attention.

A prospectus containing the precise terms of sale and a full inventory and description of the property to be sold can be obtained upon application to JOHN C. HOOK, 625 Equitable Building, Baltimore, Md.

BOOM IN THE WHEAT PIT.

ANXIETY OVER CROP LEADING FACTOR IN LIFTING PRICES.

Big Decrease in Visible Supply Coming with Unfavorable Reports from Southwest and Northwest in Giving Strength to Broad and Active Market—Corn and Oats Make Good Gains—Hog Products Rise After Early Weakness.

Increased and more general anxiety over the lack of sustaining rains in the southwest, an overdose of moisture in parts of the northwest, another big decrease in the visible supply, comparatively lighter receipts at the leading northwestern centers, a broader trade, a shrinking of bearish aggressiveness, and more confident spirit in the bullish ranks served to give wheat a good boost yesterday. The market was one of the liveliest and most unusual of the year, commission houses reporting a much improved outside business. Crop advices offset all other news in the matter of importance, and the mass of them were distinctly favorable to the bulls, some bordering on the sensational. At one time the market showed advances of 2¼-¾c for May, which was scantily offered and eagerly sought; 1½c for July and 1¾c for September. Resulting sales late in the argument, prompted by reported rains in southern and southwestern Kansas, and predictions of further falls, cut the gains down to ⅝@¾c for July and ⅝@1c for September. May showed 1⅝@ 1¾c higher at the close.

The map showed only scattered showers in the southwest, although the lowlands in the winter wheat sections were reported too wet. Liverpool early failed to reflect the strength displayed here on Saturday, being influenced largely by liberal world's shipments last week—11,656,000 bu, against 11,-612,000 bu the corresponding period last year—and an increase of about 800,000 bu in the amount on ocean passage. Shorts dashed for cover at the start and prices soon were lifted 2c higher. Some realizing caused a partial loss, but on the down turn offerings became limited. Bull leaders were the best buyers on the weaker spots. The market moved within narrow bounds until shortly before noon, when a decrease of 2,323,000 bu in the visible supply, against a loss of 1,741,000 bu last year, was reported. Buying orders came from all sides, increasing in volume as the unfavorable reports from the southwest began to pile up. One of the severest blows to the bears was the assertion by the secretary of the Kansas Grain Dealers' association that conditions in western Kansas were worse than he had thought they could be, and that not more than 25 per cent of an average crop would be raised in that part of the state. In some parts the plant was reported at a standstill, and the soft wheat sections of the Sunflower state added smut to the dry weather talk.

Lighter Receipts Northwest.

Minneapolis stocks of wheat showed a decrease of 450,000 bu for two days, and the receipts at the two leading northwestern towns for the day were 186 cars, or 156 under those of the corresponding day in 1905. Primary receipts were 310,000 bu, 27,000 bu less than the arrivals a year before. Millers were good buyers at the Minneapolis sample table and cash prices there displayed firmness although falling to follow the rise in futures. Eastern distributors and millers somewhere, bidding for No. 2 hard at 1c over May c. i. f. Buffalo. Southwestern traders were good buyers of futures here and at their home market, and the northwestern shorts gave the strength to May by their bidding for it. It was apparent that too much short selling in the July and September had been indulged in by traders who steered clear of the congested May. Local stocks of wheat increased about 87,000 bu last week, the gain being attributed to the arrivals of the Duluth grain and to scattered car lots from Minneapolis to be applied to the filling of contracts here.

Corn Shorts Scramble for Cover.

Shorts scrambled for corn in the corn market, which was broad and active, and their buying, along with that of the more confident bulls, resulted in net advances of 1c for May and ⅝@1c for the more distant months. At one time the gains were ⅝@1½c greater. The advance was scored in the face of receipts of 331 cars, of which 228 were graded contract, and a weaker Liverpool market. The strength in corn had a sympathetic influence, but the direct bullish effect came from the fact that all the increased offering found hands open to take it, from the almost entirely depleted stocks, and from a growing belief that the arrivals here would not be sufficiently large to meet all requirements and pile up into a burdensome surplus besides. It was apparent that many a speculator had oversold on the strength of a more liberal movement from the farms. The visible supply decreased 50,000 bu, against a decrease of 1,871,000 bu a year ago, and the world's shipments last week were 4,818,000 bu, against 3,448,000 bu the similar period in 1905. The amount of passage increased 1,714,000 bu, bringing the total, 3,400,000 bu, larger than a year ago. Primary receipts were 635,000 bu, 345,000 bu less than those of last year. Clearances at the seaboard were 283,000 bu. Country accumulations were reported good in some sections. The local estimate for today was 446 cars. This caused some of the longs to take profits.

New High Level for Oats.

Oats values soared to a new high level on a rush of shorts to cover and on sharp buying for several important longs. Besides scantiness of offerings, dry weather, and highly unfavorable reports from some sections were the jacks that lifted the market. Closing prices, ⅝@¾c under the session's top, showed advances of ⅝c for May and July and ½@¾c for September. The northwest, early a seller, gave good support the greater part of the session. Some of the advices from parts of Illinois and Missouri bespoke complete hopelessness of the crop, and there were numerous bad reports from Indiana. Local receipts were 120 cars, under the estimates. The visible supply showed a decrease of 1,625,000 bu, against a loss of only 421,000 bu a year ago. Local stocks fell off 1,046,000 bu last week. Seaboard clearances were 55,000 bu, and cash sales here—150,000 bu—were large at about unchanged prices.

Provisions Up After a Dip.

Prices in the provision market were easier at the start, chiefly on larger receipts of hogs than had been expected—50,000—against an estimate of 30,000—and on a weaker market at the yards. On the soft spots, however, a good demand developed from leading packers and local shorts, and prices soon were lifted out of the rut and put to advances. Ribs were given the best support. The strength in grains had a good influence on the entire market, which closed 12½@15c higher for pork, 5@7½c better for lard, and 10@12½c higher for ribs. Shipments of meats and lard hence (48 hours) were 2,440,000 lbs and 1,231,000 lbs respectively, largely in excess of those of a year before. The westward rush of hogs was 84,700, compared to 62,-000 a week before, and 59,500 a year ago.

Rye Market Is Higher.

Rye prices were advanced 1c. The market was strong on a good demand and in sympathy with other grains. Eight cars were inspected in. The visible supply decreased 50,000 bu. Withdrawals were large—169,998 bu from public houses and 2 cars from private elevators. No. 2 sold f. o. b. 66c; No. 3, 60¾c; No. 4, 58c; May, 62c and closed 62c bid; July 1.20 asked.

Barley ruled strong. All offerings were readily sold. The strong oats market helped things. The visible increased 22,000 bu.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

World's wheat shipments decreased 664,000 bu compared to the previous week, but were 600,000 bu larger than a year ago. Russian shipments were comparatively light, but American exports showed a good gain, both for the week and year. Corn shipments increased 780,000 bu for the week and 1,370,000 bu compared to a year ago. Following are the comparative figures:

Cash brokers reported a poor inquiry for wheat from millers. Trade was extremely quiet, and aside from a sale of 25,000 bu No. 2 hard sold at 1c over May price c. i. f. Buffalo, sales were unimportant. Prices were relatively steady; No. 1 northern quoted ¾@1c over May in store, No. 2 hard 2c under. St. Louis: No. 2 red was 98@98½c. At Kansas City prices were up ¼c. No. 2 hard being quoted 82½@84c, No. 2 red 93c. Higher prices prevailed for the cash wheat at Minneapolis. Washburn-Crosby were the best buyers among the local mills. Dealers called the demand satisfactory. No. 1 northern was 1¼@ 2c over July, No. 2 northern July price. Foreign business at the seaboard was quiet. There was a good active inquiry here for all the offerings of corn and oats. Fresh receipts of corn were of especially good quality and were well taken. Oats offerings were cleaned up early. Prices were steady to a shade higher. Most of the sales were made at unchanged prices. In some instances increased acceptances of both corn and oats were reported. Sales here were 125,000 bu corn and 150,000 bu oats; at the seaboard, 64,000 bu wheat, 25,000 bu corn, and 125,000 bu oats.

There was an active general trade in the wheat pit, with the local crowd, Kneeland, Rankin, Comstock, Love, and Daggett, the leading early buyers of July. On the upturn the pit crowd turned sellers on reports of rain in Kansas, causing fractional downturn. Logan-Bryan put out considerable wheat from 84¼c to 83¾c. Some selling against the ups was met on the extreme advance. Broughton-Nickells, the Northern Grain Co., Requa, and Gifford were sellers. Trade in May was quite large, Wrenn and A. J. White being the principal buyers. Wrenn bought about 300,000 bu May all told. Buying by Snydacker, Pringle, Nash-Wright, Kidston, and Comstock caused the upturn in corn. Selling was by Lake, Friedman, Canby, and locals. Bartlett sold early, but later was a buyer, and Kidston, who was a leading early buyer, sold on the bulge. Shorts in oats were kept busy covering most of the day.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 2,323,000 bu for the week, against a decrease the preceding week of 2,495,000 bu and 1,741,-000 bu decrease a year ago. The chief losses were at Minneapolis, 1,403,000 bu; Buffalo, 614,000 bu; and Duluth, 207,000 bu. Fort William stocks gained 455,000 bu; Boston, 294,000 bu; New York, 380,000 bu; and Chicago, 87,000 bu. Corn stocks decreased 542,-000 bu, against a loss of 1,081,000 bu the week previous and 1,781,000 bu decrease last year. The oats visible again showed a large decrease—1,923,000 bu, compared to a loss of 2,486,000 bu the week before and 421,000 bu last year. Rye decreased 76,000 bu and barley increased 22,000 bu. Hay scored a sharp advance on the strength of reports saying the rainfall has been too light to raise more than a small crop. No. 1 timothy was $16.00, and No. 2 $12.50@13.00 per ton. Shippers are sending it to southcentral Illinois. No. 1 timothy hay has been selling here all winter at about $12.00 per ton, and No. 2 at about $8.00 per ton. These prices prevailed up to about two weeks ago, since which time there has been a slow but steady advance. Some parts of Illinois are laying in hay for next year, claiming May deficiency of rainfall insures short crop of hay in any event.

Pringle was the big buyer of ups on July wheat, taking more than 3,000,000 bu. Lake selling the biggest part of them. Shearson-Hammill were the best sellers of downs. Bartlett bought downs on July corn. July wheat ups sold 84¾c to 85¼c, closing at 85c. Downs ranged 82¾c to 82¼c, closing at the latter price. July corn ups closed at 48¾c, and the downs 47¾@47½c.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 18 cars; corn, 446 cars; oats, 197 cars; rye, 1 car; barley, 15 cars; hogs, 18,000.

Charters were made for 200,000 bu corn to Buffalo at 1¼c.

Receipts were 12 cars. Feed was quoted 41@ 43c; malting, 44@54c; screenings, 34@42c.

Timothy seed was strong on dry weather. September sold at $3.75, an advance of 15c. May was $3.35; country lots, $2.00@3.25.

Flaxseed was dull and unchanged. No. 1 was $1.09; No. 1 northwestern, $1.14½; May, $1.09. Receipts in the northwest were 11 cars at Minneapolis and 8 cars at Duluth.

HIRSCH TO REALIZE DREAM

ON RETURN FROM EUROPE WILL SET ABOUT NEW TEMPLE.

Says Sinai Congregation Needs Larger Quarters in Location Farther South —Rabbi Believes That Conventional Church Is Largely Waste of Money and Wants Building That Can Be Used as Social Center and Focus of War Against Crime.

Plans for an immediate realization of his "dream" of an auditorium surrounded by workshops, libraries, and gymnasiums will constitute the chief work to be undertaken by Dr. Emil G. Hirsch on his return next fall from his four months' vacation in Europe.

Dr. Hirsch's desire for an institutional temple was outlined in his sermon at Sinai temple Sunday morning. Yesterday it was announced that the congregation will move within a year to a new edifice south of Thirty-ninth street, in which Dr. Hirsch's ideas will be carried out as far as is possible.

"We have been intending to move for some time," said Dr. Hirsch. "Sinai temple is not even large enough now to accommodate all the members of our own congregation when they all want to come together.

"I want a church that will be a center for the social life of the neighborhood and an active force in fighting the crime influences that are making Chicago notorious.

Conventional Church a Waste.

"It seems to me that a conventional church is a waste of money. Sinai temple represents an outlay of $200,000, and it is simply used twice on Sundays and now and then during the week for occasional meetings.

"I would have a large auditorium which would be available for any sort of meeting at any time. Then I would provide men's and women's clubrooms, a billiard room, a smoking room, and a gymnasium. Besides these I would have classrooms and a large library. All this would be open to Jew and Gentile, rich and poor alike.

"When I come back next fall we shall probably talk some more, and then in the spring secure a lot and begin building. It will be between Thirty-ninth and Fifty-first streets, for that is where the majority of our people live."

Board Considering the Plan.

"The board has been considering this plan of moving for more than a year," said Moses E. Greensebaum, president of the congregation. "We are too far north, the locality is too noisy, and the building is too small."

Deer Park Hotel DEER PARK, MD.

This famous hostelry on the superb plateau of the ALLEGHENY MOUNTAINS, known as the "GLADE," will open June 23, after a most complete renovation of the entire property, making it new throughout. The twelve private cottages have been refurnished, and the thirty-third year of this beautiful mountain resort will find it more prepossessing and enjoyable than at any time in its history.

The popularity of DEER PARK is due to its desirable altitude, 2,800 feet above the sea level, out of reach of malaria and mosquitoes; and its magnificent parkings of 500 acres of forest and lawn, and miles of perfectly kept roadways, affords most delightful surroundings.

It is thoroughly modern as to improvements and equipment, with Bowling Alleys, Billiard Rooms, Tennis Courts, Golf Links, Swimming Pools, Livery, etc., and the delightful cuisine are not surpassed. No mountain resort equals it for accessibility—only nineteen hours' ride from Chicago—by through trains with Pullman cars, via the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

For rates in hotel, annexes or cottages, or illustrated booklets and Score Blanks, apply to W. M. BURWELL, Manager, Camden Station, Baltimore, until June 1; afterward, Deer Park, Md.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., May 22.—[Spec agreement has been reached betw senate and house conferees on the s bill which goes a long way toward adjournment of congress. The c have practically agreed on the com which was predicted in these colu day the statehood bill passed.

Oklahoma and Indian territory a united and to be admitted into the the forty-sixth state. At the same ti is to be a referendum for the peopl ona and New Mexico. If a majorit territory votes for joint statehood, state of Arizona will be constituted forty-seventh star will be added to

The conferees have adjusted all dif on the bill and the agreement for dom in the southwestern states was at on the best means of letting t down gently. The senate, it will be bered, first voted to admit Oklah Indian territory together, but to l Arizona and New Mexico, unless ea for it at a special election. By a su amendment, however, the senate st 13 in the bill relating to Arizona New Mexico and left a measure providi single state through the union of O and Indian territory.

Agreement Like Foraker Amen

The basis of compromise reached tically the same as the Foraker am of last year, which the house refus cept. Both houses will almost surel the report of their conferees, so statehood question will be out of th the end of this week.

This means, in the opinion of the at both ends of the capitol, that i possible to bring around an adjourn or about June 15. Senator Aldrich ficial leader of the senate, asse congress will be able to adjourn but he is particularly anxious t himself, and he possibly put the the dark. The effort of the leade to get the work cleared up within weeks from tomorrow, which June 15.

There is great pressure among bers of the house, in particular, fo adjournment. Most of the member love to get home to straighten political fences.
